"DR." SINCLAIR HEARING COMES TO SUDDEN STOP

BRIBE CHARGE HALTS TRIAL

Report of Improper Influence at Work in Case of Man Charged With Causing Death of Annie Russell.

The trial of "Dr." John Sinclair, charged with causing the death of Annie Russell of Charlestown through illegal treatment, was abruptly stopped to-day by charges made by one of the jurors that an attempt had been made to bribe him.

Police and detectives are now engaged in a hunt for the mysterious person who approached Alfred M. Green, one of the panel in the case. Green told Judge Harris in the Superior Criminal Court that money was offered him if he would lend his influence in clearing "Dr." Sinclair.

The would-be briber, who is a colored man, called on Green at his home on Paul street last night.

The story of the man's visit and the subsequent conversation about bribery, which Green had with his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary E. Hamilton, is told by the latter. She was summoned to the court to-day to consult with Judge Harris, District Attorney Moran and Captain Dugan.

Three inspectors are now out with warrants for the arrest of three persons whose names have come out as the result of conferences between Judge Harris, Juror Green, Captain Duggan and District Attorney Moran.

Dr. Clark, who was a partner with Sinclair, is also in custody, under the eye of Inspector McGarr. He has been in conference with the officials.

COULD NOT IDENTIFY HIM.

Shortly before 12 o'clock Inspector Watts arrived at the court house with a small colored boy in his custody. The boy will be questioned as to what he knows. The main object of the police is to get the identity of the colored man who approached Green. He is described as short and thick-set. Green says he does not know who he was, and as he interviewed him in the dark, he could not thoroughly describe him. Mrs. Hamilton, who met the man at the door of her house, cannot describe him.

Juror Green remained closeted with Judge Harris for nearly ten minutes, and at the end of that time, Judge Harris announced that the jury would be excused for an indefinite time, and it retired to the jury room. A conference in the judge's chambers followed, in which Judge Harris conferred with the juryman who first approached him, together with Assistant District Attorney Dennison, who has had charge of the prosecution, and the counsel for the defence, Clarence W. Rowley.

Just before going into Judge Harris's chamber to attend the conference, Assistant District Attorney Dennison crossed the courtroom to where Captain Dugan of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, and a witness in this case, was seated at the reporter's table and said: "There has been bribery!"

No further conversation was exchanged and Captain Dugan left the courtroom, returning to his office. Assistant District Attorney Dennison then joined Judge Harris and Counsel Rowley in the judge's chambers where they were closeted in private conference with the juror.

Warrants Sent Out.

At the conclusion of a conference between Judge Harris, District Attorney Moran and Police Captain Dugan, three inspectors were sent out with warrants. The names in the warrants were not given. The inspectors detailed to make these arrests are Pierce, Hunt and Sayward.

Immediately following this Judge Harris and Mr. Moran took Green into another conference, in the private room of the Judge.

Then Inspector McGarr came in with Dr. Clark, formerly a partner of Sinclair, in his custody. These two went into the District Attorney's office and soon were in conference with Mr. Moran. This conference lasted an hour, and was finished at noon.

Juror Green lives at No. 50 Paul street, with his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary E. Hamilton. Mrs. Hamilton was summoned to the court to tell what she knew about the bribery charges. When seen at her home by a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter to-day she said:

"A man called at this house late last night to see Mr. Green about the Sinclair case. I don't know what passed between them, but I have been summoned to the court and shall go.

Was Greatly Disturbed.

"It was about 10 o'clock the man called. He rang the door bell and I answered. He asked for Alfred. I asked him whom I should say wished to see my son-in-law, and he replied that is was a private matter he had called about and that Mr. Green would not know him by name anyway.

"Then Alfred came and asked him to come inside. The man refused, saying that his business was private. So they stepped outside on the steps and talked.

"In a short time Alfred came in, and I could see he was greatly disturbed about something. He said to me:

"'Well, what do you think, Mrs. Hamilton? That man wanted to pay me money—he wanted to buy me—to help clear Dr. Sinclair in this case that I am on. I don't know who he is or who he can have come from.'

"I said to Alfred: 'You're right; you go on the straight way and you'll come out right.'

"I would not know the man if I should see him again. It was dark at the door."

The jurors in the Sinclair case are: John F. Wilson, Alfred M. Green, William Bell, Thomas M. Dwyer, James M. Rankenberg, William Brooks, William Boyd, James A. Berkery, Algernon F. Crosby, John McGargie, Oscar J. Cone, Andrew Dumas.

BIG BATTLE ON AT PINAR DEL RIO; 7,000 REBELS ATTACK CITY

HAVANA HEARS THAT INSURGENT ARMY HAS BEGUN THE COMBAT.

HAVANA, Aug. 24.—The government has to-day decided to rush 5,000 men to the defence of Pinar del Rio. Two hundred and fifty artillerymen left here last night for that place.

Reports have reached here that skirmishing, preceding the decisive battle that was expected to-day, has already begun near Pinar del Rio. It is believed that Guerra, the revolutionary leader, has begun to carry out his promised plan of campaign.

Another battle is reported to be in progress at Guines, forty-five miles from Havana. Colonel Estrampes, who left Havana on Wednesday with a government force, is said to be in battle with the insurgents there. No news has been received as to the outcome of the fighting.

The government is planning to raise an army of 10,000 volunteers at once and offers wages of $2 a day.

A special correspondent left Pinar del Rio with dispatches, which the government refused to allow him to forward, and reached here late last night with his news. He reported that Pino Guerra, with 5,000 men, was waiting for the arrival of more troops before attacking the city. Two thousand more rebels were marching to join him, and when they arrived he would attack the city from all sides.

Guerra is in full possession of San Luis and San Juan. He has not disturbed these municipalities, and has permitted eighty rural guards to march out of the latter place.

EXPECTED BATTLE TO-DAY.

With the artillery, which is well on the way, the government expected to have 900 men at Pinar del Rio to-day, when the decisive battle was expected. It is thought that Pino Guerra will win. The revolution is becoming widespread.

It is believed that the death of General Banderas will inflame the Santiago negroes. The correspondent, in talking with Guerra, learned that he will march on Havana after taking Pinar del Rio. A civic guard is now being organized to protect this city.

Skirmishes are reported from many points in the provinces of Santa Clara, Matanzas and Pinar del Rio.

The government has awakened to the full seriousness of the situation and is buying Gatling guns and will have Americans to work them. Guerra's men are veterans and are superior to the government recruits.

There is little news from Santiago. It is believed that the government is suppressing all information from that point. If a revolution starts there it will be a most serious matter.

THREAT TO BLOW UP TRACKS.

It was believed Guerra would blow up the railroad bridges and tear up the tracks between here and Pinar del Rio to-day to prevent the government reinforcements from reaching the latter place.

It is rumored that another branch of

MAN'S BODY FOUND ON BEACH; HOLE IN HEAD

MYSTERIOUS DEATH NOW BEING INVESTIGATED BY MARBLEHEAD POLICE.

The body of the man found on the beach at Marblehead was to-day identified by a slip of paper in the man's pocket as James Wansley of Charlestown.

MARBLEHEAD, Aug. 24.—The police of Marblehead are to-day investigating the mysterious death of a well-dressed man, whose body was found on the sand at Ware Beach near here, with a jagged hole in the forehead, from which a stream of blood was trickling. Whether the man was murdered or jumped into the water to commit suicide and received a blow on the head from a piece of timber is now being investigated.

Medical Examiner Frank A. Atwood of Salem, arrived on a morning train and soon determined that the immediate cause of the man's death was by drowning. He did not explain the wounds on the man's head and face, which appear as heavy bruises and abrasions of the skin. No inquest has been decided upon as yet.

After the body was found Chief of Police Frost and Policeman Doliver came to Ware Beach, where the body was lying on the sand and had it removed to the undertaking establishment of J. Harvey Broomer.

The body was that of a man five feet four inches in height and weighed about 120 pounds. The complexion was light, the eyes blue. The hair, beard and mustache were gray. The upper teeth were gone while the lower teeth were in good condition.

In the pockets was found a receipt from the New York & Boston Dispatch Company for $2.40. It was numbered 53,846 and marked "South Station." A pair of metal-framed spectacles was also found. On the spectacle case was printed the name "Leon C. Collins, 791 Washington street, Boston." The tag on the coat bore the name, "A. B. Merrill," probably that of the maker.

The man's identity is at present not revealed. His body was clad in more than ordinarily good and well-fitting clothes and it is evident that he was well-to-do. At present the work of seeking his identity has just begun.

The body was found about 8:30 o'clock this morning by a resident of Ware Beach, Hatch by name. Mr. Hatch did not know the man.

From the appearance of the body it was evident that it had not been long in the water before it was either cast on the beach by the surf or left by the tide.

The body of the man was removed to the undertaking establishment of Harvey Broomer at Marblehead a half-hour after it was found. It was viewed by the different members of the police force and the description was recorded to assist in finding the identity of the man.

Explosion Shatters Postoffice Safe;

THIEVES GET $2,600

Contents in Cash and Stamps Carried Off in Daring Raid at Randolph.

Muffled Report Heard by Woman as Burglars Worked—Make Good Their Escape.

Special to the Boston American.

RANDOLPH, Aug. 24.—Burglars broke into the Randolph postoffice early to-day, blew open the safe with nitro-glycerine, secured $2,600 in cash and stamps, and escaped.

From statements made by Mrs. A. L. Chase, wife of Dr. Chase, living two doors from the postoffice building, it is thought that the burglars took the Blue Hill avenue road toward Milton and Boston. There is no track of carriage wheels or other vehicle by which to trace them. Police Chief P. H. Haney and Postmaster Herbert H. Howard are waiting for the arrival of postoffice inspectors from Boston to assist them in investigating the matter.

The amount of booty secured, the boldness of the break and the complete success of the burglars make this crime one of the worst ever committed here in the burglary line. From the manner in which the burglars dovetailed their plans with movements of the police, it is thought that they were familiar with the town. At the same time it is thought that professionals from outside, rather than any local people, were concerned in it.

The postoffice is in the store occupying the ground floor of a two-and-one-half story wooden building. The second story is used as a club room by the Young Men's Catholic Lyceum.

At 1:45 a. m. to-day Police Chief Haney stopped his night patrol and went home to bed as usual.

Heard Muffled Report.

At 2 o'clock Mrs. Chase heard the sound of a muffled explosion, followed a few minutes later by the sound of two men talking. It is thought the men proceeded toward Milton. Mrs. Chase did not think of any burglary having been committed, so she gave no alarm.

At 7 o'clock to-day Postmaster Howard opened the postoffice as usual. He found the interior of the place wrecked. The safe door was on the floor at the opposite side of the room. The cash and stamp boxes had been pulled out and rifled. The panes of the postoffice windows were forced out, evidently by the force of the explosion when the safe door was blown off.

Used Nitro-Glycerine.

Traces of soap about the edges of the safe door showed that the usual combination of nitro-glycerine and soap had been used, with blankets probably placed over the safe to deaden the explosion.

Postmaster Howard found that access to the building had been gained by the burglars taking a ladder belonging to the Lyceum, which had been left in the yard of the postoffice, placing the ladder against a first-story window on the side of the building and forcing the window. The alley-way on that side of the building is depressed, making use of the ladder necessary.

The postmaster's hasty examination of the office stock showed that $350 in cash had been taken, $50 worth of two-cent stamp books and $2,200 worth of stamps of all denominations not in book, making a total of $2,600.

JAIL 3 MEN AS THUGS WANTED FOR HOLDUP

DETECTIVES ON TRAIL OF NORTH ATTLEBORO HIGHWAYMEN CATCH MEN IN PAWTUCKET.

Special to the Boston American.

NORTH ATTLEBORO, Aug. 24.—Three men are in jail in Pawtucket, suspected of being the highwaymen who held up Arthur Green, Jr., in North Attleboro Wednesday and took $3,000 from him in Bank street.

Detective Henry of Pawtucket, who has been working on the case, obtained a good description of the suspected robbers who held young Green up. Last night he arrested three men at their homes in Woodlawn, a suburb of Pawtucket, and placed them in the jail to await possible identification by Green and the witnesses to the robbery.

FIND MOTHER DEAD; LITTLE ONES HUNGRY

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—"Don't wake my mamma; she's tired," said little Edward Hoey, his face pinched with hunger, as he and his twelve-year-old sister observed neighbors enter their scantily-furnished rooms on West Fifty-third street to-day. The children sat at the bedside of the mother, waiting for her to open her eyes. Mrs. Mary Hoey had lived and died for her children.

Left a widow, she worked her fingers to the bone to provide for her little ones. Her wages were small and food was scarce. She reached home nights from her work tired to complete exhaustion. That her children might have the proper amount of food, she denied herself nourishment.

A few days ago she sank back on her bed, sighing that she was too tired to go to work. She was advised to go to the hospital, but she said she could not leave the children. Yesterday little Alice told the neighbors: "Mother is so tired she cannot talk."

The children sat hand in hand by the mother's bedside all day and night and sobbed tearfully. When the neighbors came to-day little Edward told them that his mamma was asleep. Mrs. Hoey was dead. The police say the woman had been dead eleven hours.

CLEVELAND SPEAKS AT "OLD HOME" DAY

TAMWORTH, N. H., Aug. 24.—Ex-President Grover Cleveland, Governor John McLane and ex-Governor N. J. Bachelder, master of the National Grange, were the principal speakers at the first observance of Old Home Day by this town, which is nearly 200 years old.

100 FLEE AT NIGHT FROM BLAZING HOME

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 24.—Over 100 waiters, the majority of them women, were forced to jump from the windows of a burning restaurant in a $30,000 fire which threatened Rocky Point, the recreation grounds on Narragansett Bay, just before daylight to-day. About a score were injured, but none of them seriously. The building was in flames at the time, and their escape was narrow. The place was in a panic. Scores of women ran about the streets in their night clothes, all their other possessions in the burning building. A number of actresses at the Forest Casino packed their belongings hastily and prepared to leave the place. The cause of the fire is a mystery.

Only the work of a bucket brigade of about 150 employes of the grounds saved the whole place from destruction.

The flames caught the grand stand in the baseball grounds and destroyed it, but did not spread further.

Twenty male waiters employed in the clam-house, who were asleep on the second floor of the large wooden laundry building, were awakened to find the building in flames. They barely had time to jump from the second story windows in scant attire before the entire structure was aflame. All their effects were lost.

A strong wind from the north scattered thousands of sparks over the grounds, endangering the midway, the Forest Casino, the skating rink, Rock Cottage, and the hotel at the farther side of the grounds. The bake house, where supplies and stores were housed, caught fire and was destroyed.

LID ON WHITNEY BARREL; MORAN NOW THE CRY

Formerly Hesitating Worcester Politicians Declare for District Attorney.

Special to the Boston American.

WORCESTER, Aug. 24.—Now that Henry M. Whitney has withdrawn from the race for the Democratic nomination for Governor, Worcester politicians are to-day coming out flat footed for John B. Moran. Moran has all along been very strong here, but many politicians who had been holding aloof from active interest thinking that there would be "pickings" for somebody, now that Mr. Whitney has refused to have his name further considered, have declared themselves as favoring the nomination of John B. Moran.

Now that there will be no pickings, the politicians who had kept themselves free from entangling alliances and, indeed, many who had until this time been openly for Whitney, are declaring themselves for the district attorney.

Moran Men Jubilant.

The out-and-out Moran men here are to-day jubilant at the turn affairs have taken. They can see nothing to it but Moran from this time on. In Democratic camps to-day there is a general Moran movement.

Ex-Representative Peter F. Sullivan, who was a Boston visitor yesterday, came back loaded with political news. "It's clear sailing for John B. Moran now," he said. "I have been in Boston and all through the political camps there. The Moran men are wild with joy over the withdrawal of Whitney.

There is nobody now to furnish the campaign money," he continued. "The campaign barrel has taken a final roll into Whitney's strong box and it will stay there, too. After what has happened it isn't likely Whitney is going to knock the head off the cask and scatter coins into the pockets of Democrats.

"Public With Moran."

"The District Attorney has got public sentiment with him, and to fight and overcome public sentiment you have to have money. Whitney had the coin and showed the disposition to spend a lot of it in the fight. I had never declared myself in this fight. But I will say right now that I am for John B. Moran with both feet."

Representative James H. Mellen was also in Boston. He, too, was enthusiastic as he says that he is a Moran man from head to foot.

Representative Edward H. O'Brien also came out plainly for Moran. He said that he was out on the firing line for the District Attorney.

EAST WIND AND STORM END THE KILLING HEAT

Relief from the intolerable weather of the past few days came to-day as the result of a welcome shift of the wind to the East and a heavy thunderstorm that cleared the humidity from the air and sent the temperature tobogganing downward.

The first indications of the change started with a display of vivid flashes of lighting that continued for a couple of hours before the rain began to fall about 8 o'clock last night. The showers were light in and near Boston, but in some parts of New England assumed considerable proportions.

By midnight the thermometer registered as low as 65 degrees on the street and the humidity was about normal at 70.

Another such day as yesterday would have been serious for the hospital people, for they were taxed to their utmost caring for the prostrations which came in yesterday with startling frequency. Two deaths were reported from the intense heat.

CAUSTIC REPLY IS EXPECTED FROM MAYOR

Answer to Rebuke by Pauper Trustees Awaited with Interest.

An immediate and presumably caustic reply is expected from Mayor John F. Fitzgerald as soon as he arrives from Old Orchard to the severe rebuke administered him in a letter signed by four of the deposed trustees of the Board of Pauper Institutions concerning their removal by the Mayor and the troubles at Long Island almshouse.

This letter says that, in defiance of the law, the Mayor interfered with the trustees' management of the almshouse. They also say that Superintendent James F. English, the demand for whose resignation by the trustees led to their removal by the Mayor, was disobedient, neglectful and persistently untruthful.

Four Trustees Signed.

The four trustees signing the rebuke are the only ones of the six whom the Mayor removed who are at present in town. They are W. Parker Prentiss of the banking house of Kidder, Peabody & Co., Miss Maud M. Rockwell, daughter of the late Col. Horace G. Rockwell, David D. Scannell, the Back Bay physician, and Bernard J. Rothwell, who has long been interested in philanthropic work. The communication is as follows:

"The satisfactory results secured at Long Island under the control of the board of trustees which you so summarily dismissed August 9 are attested by John B. Martin, official in charge of the Pauper Institutions Department, in his report to you dated August 17.

"His report, however, has no bearing volved:

"First. That in defiance of law you interfered with the management of the department by the board of trustees and undertook to decide issues between the board, legally vested with sole control, and its subordinates, and further undertook, under a thinly veiled threat, to dictate its action.

"Second. That six of seven members of the board certified to you (what you had previously been several times verbally informed), that in their judgment the superintendent, James F. English, is utterly unfit for the position in which you insist upon detaining him.

Citizens Have Rights

"That this judgment was based upon his repeated refusal or neglect to obey the explicit directions of the board.

"That it was based upon his total ignorance of financing, of expenditures, and of various details of management essential in such an institution.

"Finally, that it was based upon his persistent untruthfulness—untruthfulness to an extent that made it impossible to accept with confidence any statement that he might make.

"This man—thus stigmatized—who was informed of the nature of the charges against him, and who never sought the hearing to which he was entitled and which the board would have been glad to accord him, you have, for reasons best known to yourself, determined to uphold.

"We believe that the citizens of Boston have some rights in this matter which even you should respect, and they very properly demand that these most serious charges against a public servant be disproved, or that he be removed, as was the board. 'For the good of the service.'"

HORSEWHIPPED GIRL TOOK PARIS GREEN

350 "HELLO" GIRLS STRIKE.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Three hundred and fifty telephone girls employed in the central exchange of the Chicago Telephone Company are out on a strike and 7,000 telephones in the business district are out of service.

The cause of the strike was an order issued by the company directing the girls at "Central" to enter the building through a rear door.

Havana Hears News of Combat, and 5,800 Men Are Sent to City's Defence.

Pino Guerra's force defeated the rural guard at Pinar del Rio.

Captain Pujol, with 250 artillerymen with field guns, left here last night for Pinar del Rio to help in the attempt to retake San Juan.

Part of Ex-Congressman Mendieta's force captured Rancho Veloz yesterday. They captured a number of horses, arms, ammunition and provisions.

Mendieta himself is in Havana City planning the organization of a new band.

Orestes Ferrara, who is here from New York, and who is said by the government to be a rebel leader, is still hiding in Havana.

U. S. GOVERNMENT AGITATED OVER CUBAN SITUATION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Despite all efforts of the State Department to minimize the present Cuban trouble, the situation is considered exceedingly grave by the high government officials, and the probability of intervention by this country is being discussed at length to-day.

It now develops that the reason for the visit of General Bell to Oyster Bay yesterday may have been of more importance than a consultation over the colored troops question in Texas. It is believed here that the real object of General Bell's conference with the President was to determine the method of procedure should intervention by the United States in the Cuban troubles become necessary.

Administration officials are united in the belief that this government has the right to intervene now, considering the proportions which the revolution has attained. However, the disposition is to let the present Cuban government work out its own salvation, unless American interests in the island should become unpleasantly involved.

Intervention without a request from President Palma would be regarded in some quarters as a step toward annexation, and the administration here is particularly desirous that no such impression be created abroad.

SEEKING GUNS AND AMERICAN GUNNERS

HAVANA, Aug. 24.—The Cuban government has ordered from an American arms manufacturing company four rapid-fire guns to be manned by former members of the artillery branch of the American army now here, according to Font Sterling, secretary of the treasury.

If these guns prove to be effective more guns will be ordered, and it is expected that experienced gunners can be procured in the United States to man them.

The United States has not been asked to do anything in the premises. The subject of American intervention is much discussed here and is regarded as a remote possibility, there being general confidence that the government will be able to restore order in a short time.

The government is acting with energy in sending rural guards and volunteers against the Santa Clara rebels and in dispatching more men to defend Pinar del Rio against Pino Guerra. The capture of San Juan de Martinez by Guerra's band was not a great surprise, though it was not expected so soon. The place was protected by a very small detachment of rural guards, while Guerra's strength was much greater.

The taking of Pinar Del Rio will be quite another matter, since there are in that vicinity twice as many troops as the insurgent Pino Guerra can muster.

While government reinforcements are going forward, Guerra's following is not believed to have been greatly augmented by his occupancy of the two Vuelta Abajo towns.

CUBANS IN RUSH TO REACH HOMES

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Governor Sobarrado, of the Province of Pinar del Rio, who has been stopping for a month at a resort in the Adirondacks, has received a message, the purport of which is not given out, which has caused him and other Cubans in his party to arrange to leave for their native land at once. He is now in this city.

At the Hotel America, the Hotel Murot and the Westminster there were flocks of Cubans to-day, all in cable communication with relatives in Cuba and all making hurried arrangements to get back to Cuba. From Saratoga there has been a steady rush of Cubans for three days and from all the Adirondack resorts, which are popular with Cubans, and from resorts along the New England coast there came a crowd of Cubans, eager for first hand news from home and ready to make any sacrifice to get back to the republic.

To many of these Cubans, the news that a rebellion had been started was merely a premature announcement. They had expected it, but not quite so soon. The movement had its beginning, they asserted, on the day after the last election, which seated President Palma, and since that time preparations have been quietly going on.

In the estimation of some of the big planters who are now here, the outbreak came sooner than was intended, even by the organizers of the movement, and from that fact they make the prediction that, while the government will have much trouble in suppressing the disorder, it will do so with less effort than would have been required had the insurrection not been abortive.

ANNEXATION IS STRONGLY TALKED AT CUBAN CAPITAL

HAVANA, Aug. 24.—Annexation is now strongly talked of as the best means of quieting the rebellion here. There is a strong feeling among those in sympathy with the revolution that government under the powers of the United States would be more acceptable than the present state of affairs. Many business men believe that annexation will become necessary.

Added to this, the American residents of the Isle of Pines, who feel highly incensed at the Palma administration for the imprisonment of three young Americans, including a nineteen-year-old girl, for the crime of maintaining a private telegraph line on their own premises, have openly taken sides with the revolutionists against the insular government, and they are giving the insurgents all the aid and comfort that lie in their power.

The insurgents, in an insolent note of defiance sent into Havana, threaten to pull down international complications upon the head of the island government if any more troops are sent against them. This they threatened to do by blowing up the bridges and destroying the property of the Western railroad, a British corporation.

In spite of the half-hearted denials of the government faction, the revolutionary movement has assumed formidable proportions. The island is aflame with insurrectionary spirit, and those who have watched the trend of events for the past few months discount the government's boast that it will crush out the rebellion within a few weeks.

The revolutionists have been preparing for this struggle ever since the presidential election, but the Palma forces, flushed with victory in that campaign, under-estimated the strength of their antagonists.

As a result of the over-optimistic view of the officials several cargoes of arms and ammunition made their way down the Caribbean from Florida coast during the past two months and were landed.

250 MILL GIRLS STRIKE, TIE UP PLANT; 400 OUT

EMPLOYES OF BAG CONCERN ASK FOR MORE WAGES; QUIT WHEN LEADER IS DISCHARGED

RUMFORD FALLS, Me., Aug. 24.—Two hundred and fifty girls are on strike in the mill of the Consolidated Paper Bag Company here to-day and the 400 employes of the company are idle. The trouble is said to be due to the discharge yesterday of Miss Olive Pomeroy, whose name headed a petition asking for an increase of twenty-five cents a day in wages, which was refused by Superintendent Theodore Hawley.

It is understood that an offer was made by the superintendent to reply to the petition a week from Saturday night, but was rejected. The girls are said to have become dissatisfied when the girls in the finishing room of the Oxford Paper Mills were given an increase of twenty-five cents in their pay, beginning last Monday.

Two boarding houses belonging to the company were ordered vacated last night by direction of Superintendent Hawley, and eighty-five girls were forced to seek quarters elsewhere. Some of the girls employed in the factory have already left town and others are preparing to leave to-day.

The offices of the Continental company are in New York city.

FIRED UPON MRS. ARMOUR IN HER AUTO

CHICAO, Ill., Aug. 24.—Shot at five times by a policeman, her chauffeur arrested twice and fined $20 the second time, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, wife of the millionaire packer, is planning drastic action against the Rogers Park officer who riddled her automobile with bullets and risked hitting Mrs. Armour and her little daughter Lolita, who is in delicate health.

The adventures of the party with the policeman were told by Chauffeur G. H. Huck, while he was digging bullets from the big red 40-horsepower Mercedes automobile at the Armour garage.

"When we entered Rogers Park we were driving slowly," Huck said. "Mrs. Armour had asked me to be careful on account of Miss Lolita. Mrs. Armour sat on front with me, and in the rear were Miss Lolita, Miss Miller, her nurse. A policeman ordered us to stop, calling out that we were violating the speed law. I denied it, for we were going so slowly that we could keep up a running conversation with him. He drew a revolver and began to wave it. I stopped the car, and he began to shoot. He fired five times. Here are the bullets now," and Huck pointed to the riddled tonneau.

DE KOVEN'S MUSIC AT DINNER TO BE GIVEN IN DAUGHTER'S HONOR

COPYRIGHT 1901
BY CLINEDINST

The Princess Cantacuzene, Who Will Be One of the Noted Guests at the Party, Together with the Prince.

Miss Ethel R. de Koven, whose coming out party at Newport, on August 28, will be a novelty among social functions.

Mrs. Potter Palmer, who is on her way from Paris and who will attend the de Koven party.

Mrs. H. C. Chatfield-Taylor, a guest of the de Kovens.

Unique and Artistic Entertainment Planned for Smart Set in Newport.

Special to the Boston American.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 24.—Guests representing the smartest element in society will gather in Bellevue Lodge to-night for the dinner dance in honor of Miss Ethel De Koven. Mr. and Mrs. Reginald de Koven, parents of the beautiful debutante, have planned features for both the dance and the dinner, which promise to make both functions among the most distinctively original ever offered for fae delectation of pleasure-seeking wealth.

In addition to the splendid appointments which money and social position can assure, the de Kovens have the advantage over some of their society rivals in an artistic cleverness which enables them to achieve extra personal triumphs in the line of diverse entertainment and unique hospitality.

Composes Special March.

Mr. de Koven, with his world-famed musical talent has contributed toward these special arrangements materially. In the first place, he has composed a special march, entitled "King Edward's March," will will usher in the dancing programme. This march, named for the British ruler, is equally in his daughter's honor. Mr. de Koven has also composed other pieces for to-night but the "King Edward's March" is announced as the musical piece de resistance.

Mrs. de Koven, who as hostess naturally has charge of the dinner details, has devised some original features. The guests will be seated in golden chairs. They will be bidden to the tables promptly at midnight. In addition to these features, it is said that several other dinner diversions are scheduled to differentiate the de Koven function from the usual round of society feasting.

One of the lastest changes, by the way, is the increase in the number of guests from the original number of 110 to 170. These will be seated ten at a table, over which a soft illumination will be shed from shaded incandescents.

Representative Guest List.

The list of guests will include the most representative in the society, musical and artistic world. The Prince and Princess Cantacuzene, who recently arrived from Europe to visit the Princess's parents, General and Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant, will attend.

Mrs. Hobart Chatfield Chatfield-Taylor has been a guest of the de Kovens at Bram Lodge for the past three weeks. She will be among the society notables at the dinner dance.

Mrs. Potter Palmer is expected from Paris just in time to be a guest at Bellevue Lodge. George Barr McCutcheon, the distinguished author of the "Graustark" romances, and Mrs. McCutcheon, are also en route to Newport to participate in the honors to Miss de Koven. Then the regular list of society personages at Newport will be "among those present."

Miss de Koven is one of the really popular girls of the society set. She is musical like her father and literary like her mother. But she is a good deal of a twentieth century girl at that, which means that she is uncommonly athletic. She golfs, drives and rides cleverly, can guide an auto at over-speed limit, can play a fast and clever game on the tennis court, and, it goes withsaying, can dance divinely.

In welcome to this attractive maid, Newport society, at its best, will foregather at noted Bellevue Lodge to-night, in one of the smartest affairs of the season.

LODGERS IN PANIC, RESULT OF LYNN FIRE

Score and a Half of Persons Given a Bad Scare in a Boarding House.

Special to the Boston American.

LYNN, Aug. 24.—Thirty lodgers in the boarding house at No. 151 Union street were awakened at 4:30 o'clock this morning by smell of smoke, and wild scenes of disorder resulted when they tried to get to the street. They jostled each other about and Mrs. Harriet Thomas fainted and fell down a flight of stairs.

John Lewis and wife, living on the third floor, were so excited that they could not find the key to unlock the door. Lewis broke a panel of the door, pushed his wife through and crawled out after her. Mrs. Lewis was considerably bruised.

The fire was confined to a restaurant in the basement. The damage was about $500.

11 HORSES BURN IN CHELSEA FIRE

A spectacular fire visited Chelsea just after midnight, and before an alarm could be given the sky was illumined so that the glare was seen for miles around. The light attracted a large crowd, many coming from Boston.

The fire was discovered in the one-story wooden building on Summer street, owned and occupied by Isaac Levenson as a boarding stable, and so quickly did it spread that none of the eleven horses could be saved.

When the firemen arrived, Levenson's building was past saving, and they gave attention to preventing a spread of the flames. The horses in Cronin's stable were taken out by the police and volunteers.

Levenson's loss is about $4,000. Cronin's stable was damaged about $300; the total loss is about $5,000.

WASHED OUT BY RAIN, 200 BODIES EXPOSED

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 24.—The washing out of graves at Elmwood cemetery by torrential rains yesterday exposed nearly 200 bodies. The cemetery is five miles from the business centre of the city. In the city 5.93 inches of water fell in 3½ hours.

EARS OF CHILI'S PRESIDENT'S WIFE CUT OFF

Bandits Attacked Senora Montt When She Fell from Balcony in Earthquake.

VALPARAISO, Chile, Aug. 24.—When the house of President-elect Montt collapsed in the recent earthquake, his wife fell from the balcony into the street, and bandits who were passing cut off her ears and fingers to rob her of her jewelry. She was taken in a dying state on board the Chilean warship O'Higgins.

Dispatches from other cities are pouring in to show the great extent of the earthquake catastrophe. Melipilla, Petroica, Ligua, Curice, Rengo, Pelequen, Tingairirica, Estrella Polpaico, Linares, San Javier, Panguilemo, San Rafaele and Camerico are all utterly ruined and with great loss of life. Railways and telegraphs are working very badly.

In the conjunction of Jupiter and the moon, which was accomplished by brilliant electric phenomena, several witnesses assert that they saw jets of light and fire balls falling in all directions on the horizon and above the city.

Fernandez Blanco, Governor of the Province of Valparaiso, has proclaimed the city in a state of siege, and has conferred supreme authority on Navy Capt. Gomez Carreno. The prefect of police is charged with the duty of collecting and distributing foods.

One of the first acts of the military governor was to issue an order that any person found breaking water mains should be shot.

The Mayor's office is now in Victoria square, beside the Governor's tent.

The whole of Victoria street last night was illuminated by electric lamps. Two other streets also were lighted and to-night Cerro and Alefres streets will be lighted. Electric cars already are running between Baron station and Recreo, and to-day the operation of cars will be extended to Vina del Mar.

The total number of bodies buried up to Tuesday was 648.

The main postoffice has been re-opened.

At Llaillai there is not a single wall in good condition. There were thirty persons killed there.

The earthquake was very severe at Concon and Colmo. The dead in those places number twenty-five.

Meat and bread are scarce. Meat is now being distributed by the authorities. The grocers' shops that were not destroyed by the earthquake are now nearly out of stock.

2 HANDCUFFED MEN ESCAPE

RUTLAND, Vt., Aug. 24.—Two prisoners, handcuffed to each other, escaped from Sheriff Enos B. Fish of this city at Whitehall, N. Y., yesterday, and they are being hunted in the woods near that place today.

Officer Fish was bringing the men here from the Essex County Jail at Elizabethtown, N. Y., to answer to a charge of burglary at Benson.

While the party was changing cars at Whitehall, the prisoners, William Norton and O. A. McGinn, said to live in Whitehall, struck the officer to the ground, and jumping over him, made for the woods, linked together with irons.

CROWDS FROM FAR AND NEAR AT WONDERLAND

Excursions Bring York State Folks and People from 'Way Down East.

EUGENE PERRY IN CHARGE

Everyone in Greater Boston, Massachusetts and New England knows where Wonderland is. Greater Boston people journey thither in crowds of hundreds of thousands, week in and week out. But to bring the people from more distant places is no mean task, although they all want to come. The transportation of Wonderland visitors from distant points in Massachusetts and from all quarters in New England is in the able hands of Eugene F. Perry, Wonderland's excursion agent.

How well Mr. Perry has performed his great task is revealed in the fact that not less than four hundred excursions have been booked and run to Wonderland this year. There are still more to follow. Mr. Perry has about seventy-five additional excursions from far distant points which will be run to Wonderland before the first and present season closes.

And these excursions have been glittering successes, too. Long, heavy trains, laden with expectant excursionists have been drawing up to the pretty, graceful, snow white gates of Wonderland ever since the season opened on Memorial Day last may.

Wonderland "Has the Goods."

Wonderland has been ably advertised far and wide all over the East. Everyone who can read a newspaper or a great flaming sign knows what and where Wonderland is. The great aggregation of attractions "has the goods," and is its own best advertisement, for anyone who goes to Wonderland tells all the folks about it and is not only anxious to return himself, but to take every friend and acquaintance along with him.

That's why Mr. Perry was able to engineer to success four hundred excursions for Wonderland.

Where did the people come from? From everywhere within a range of hundreds of miles. With the "White City" at Worcester on the West; Rock Point and Crescent Park of the Providence River on the West and South, long excursion trains filled with people have snorted right by, bringing thousands all the way to Wonderland at Revere.

Equally great crowds have jammed big excursion trains in Northern New England and have smilingly bowled right past Old Orchard and Salisbury Beach on their way to Wonderland.

Mr. Perry has brought in excursions from Bangor, Me., and from Schenectady, N. Y. People have been delighted, yes, eager to journey to Wonderland, even when they knew that their stay there would often be not longer than a couple of hours. But Wonderland is well worth visiting, even if a stay of more than two hours is impossible.

Carnival Week Coming.

Week after next is Carnival week at Wonderland. It will open with Labor Day, when Wonderland expects to break all records for attendance if the weather is good. Mr. Perry is doing his part to swell the crowds there during the two weeks of mad gaiety, which will bring Wonderland's first season to a close. He has booked several of his largest and most distant excursions for that week.

Mr. Perry knows that the people want to come to Wonderland, and he has spared neither time, work nor money to gratify this desire. The crowds during Mardi Gras week will completely eclipse anything ever conceived at a pleasure attraction in New England.

The special days at the great show place continue. Almost every day the employes of some great Boston store or factory are the welcome guests at Wonderland. On such occasions the employes of the favored concern are all admitted to the splendid pleasure ground absolutel yfree, and they are urged to stay there for the whole day and have the time of their lives.

Well Fitted for Post.

Mr. Perry, Wonderland's advertising and excursion agent, is a young man admirably fitted for the responsibilities of the difficult position which he fills. He has had abundant experience in that particular line of work. As far back as 1894 he was road manager for Mme. Melba on her concert tour in the United States and Canada, and for two years following that was with Edward E. Rice in advance of "Evangeline" and "The Show Girl." He was superintendent of Norumbega Park in its opening year, and since then has been associated with various amusement and theatrical enterprises.

RYAN HAS BIG TRUST SCHEME

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Thomas F. Ryan, before he went to Europe, tried unsuccessfully to consummate a gigantic scheme for the consolidation under his own dominating influence of the four great trust companies controlled respectively by the Equitable Assurance Society and the Mutual Life Insurance Company.

The subsidiary companies are the Guaranty Trust Company, the United States Mortgage and Trust Company, controlled by the Mutual Life, the Equitabe Trust Company and the Mercantile Trust Company, controlled by the Equitable. On competent authority it was learned yesterday that Paul D. Cravath, Mr. Ryan's personal counsel, acting under Mr. Ryan's instructions, drew up in outline a proposal setting forth the main features of a plan for the consolidation of the companies named under the fostering wing of the Morton Trust Company, an institution dominated by Mr. Ryan and which he is the vice-president.

As the owner of the majority stock interest in the Equitable Life, Mr. Ryan could readily have swung into such a deal the Equitable Life's holdings in the Mercantile Company, amounting to sixty-five per cent. of that concern's entire capital stock.

Woman Injured With Others at Railroad Crossing in East Brookfield is Doing Well.

WORCESTER, Aug. 24.—Physicians and surgeons of St. Vincent's hospital on Vernon Hill are exercising their utmost skill to save the life of Mrs. Louis S. Chase of Cambridge, the most seriously injured of three persons hurt when their automobile was hit by a Boston & Albany passenger train at East Brookfield crossing.

Mrs. Page has a fracture of the skull. After the first shock and pain of the accident she is resting quite comfortably, but her condition is still very serious. She is being treated in one of the private rooms, with one of the best nurses of the hospital staff in constant attendance. The doctors think that, if no untoward conditions ensue, they will be able to save Mrs. Chase.

In another private room of the same hospital Mr. Chase is being treated. His injuries consist of a fracture of the right leg and general bruises and shock to his system. He is recovering as fast as can be expected, his principal anxiety being for his wife.

The third victim of the accident, Mrs. Irving H. Page of Chicopee Falls, was taken home after the accident. She is suffering from broken ribs, but her life is not thought to be in danger.

With them in the auto were Mr. Page and the chauffeur, Sumner Hancock. The two last named were thrown out with the others when the auto was tipped over, but escaped with slight bruises.

Millionaire Cottagers Terrorized as Fair Chauffeur Drives Gang in Auto.

SHOOT WHEN DISCOVERED

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Posing as rich cottagers and riding through the country with a huge automobile with a woman chauffeur, a gang of daring bandits are making numerous robberies in Nassau county, where many New York millionaires have their Summer homes.

County officials believe that the woman chauffeur, who is tall and blonde, is the real leader of the robbers.

The deeds of the automobile band have inspired terror in the district. Within three hours yesterday the band made four attempts at burglary. They are armed with the latest safe-breaking appliances, high powder explosives and deadly weapons. In every instance when detected in their work they have opened fire on their discoverers. The woman has not hesitated to shoot when officers have closely pressed the bandits.

BABY COVERED WITH SORES

Would Scratch and Tear the Flesh Unless Hands Were Tied—Wasted to a Skeleton—Awful Suffering for Over a Year—Grew Worse Under Doctors—Skin Now Clear.

WOULD HAVE DIED BUT FOR CUTICURA.

"My little son, when about a year and a half old, began to have sores come out on his face. I had a physician treat him, but the sores grew worse. Then they began to come on his arms, then on other parts of his body, and then one came on his chest, worse than the others. Then I called another physician. Still he grew worse. At the end of about a year and a half of suffering he grew so bad I had to tie his hands in cloths at night to keep him from scratching the sores and tearing the flesh.

"He got to be a mere skeleton, and was hardly able to walk. My Aunt advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. So great was her faith in it that she gave me a small piece of Soap to try and a little of the Ointment. I took it home without any faith, but to please her I tried it, and it seemed to dry up the sores a little.

"I sent to the drug store and got a cake of the Soap and a box of the Ointment and followed the directions, and at the end of about two months the sores were all well. He has never had any sores of any kind since.

"He is now strong and healthy, and I can sincerely say that only for your most wonderful remedies my precious child would have died from those terrible sores. I used only one cake of Soap and about three boxes of Ointment. (signed) Mrs. Egbert Sheldon, R. F. D., No. 1, Woodville, Conn, April 22, 1905."

Bought With Money Subscribed (?) by the Fighting Men of the Manchurian Army.

ST. PETERSBURG, Russia, Aug. 24.—The Czarwitch Alexis, heir to the throne of the empire of all the Russias, has just celebrated his second birthday anniversary.

Alexis is a healthy, flourishing youngster and seems to enjoy thoroughly the limited world of his nursery and the grounds of Peterhof.

The fete day was made the occasion of a lavish display of flags, but there was no public enthusiasm manifested. In fact, few persons seemed to know what was the occasion of the decorations.

The Ikon, or sacred image picture, is of gold, is inset with rubies and pearls, and cost 20,000 rubles. This money was subscribed—the captions say "exacted"—from the soldiers of every regiment now or formerly in the Far East.

2,500 PROMISE TO SAVE SOULS

By Boston American Leased Wire.

WINONA LAKE, Ind., Aug. 24.—At the Bible conference being held here 2,500 people rose to their feet last night and promised that during the remainder of their lives they would make soul saving their chief business. Many other determined to become Christians.

All this was done at the invitation of the Rev. Dr. Reuben A. Torrey, the world famous evangelist of Chicago, who was the preacher. Among other things he said:

"If I knew that by dropping dead on this platform, to-night I could be the means of saving one single soul, who, if I lived twenty years longer, would not be saved, I would be willing to die this instant."

AL ADAMS LOST SMALL FORTUNE IN SAGE CRASH

WALL STREET BELIEVES POLICY KING HARD HIT IN FRENZIED FINANCE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—"Al" Adams, dethroned "king of policy," has been stripped of hundreds of thousands of dollars by the collapse of M. J. Sage & Co., the most elaborate system of low finance ever organized in the United States, is generally believed in Wall street.

Statements by his son that the man whom Captain F. Norton Goddard sent to Sing Sing was not connected with the firm, which last Wednesday went to pieces, are regarded as quibbles. Every circumstance indicates that he who furnished the gearing for the chain of bucket shops which scooped up the cash of thousands of customers was none other than Albert J. Adams, Sr.

Those who are familiar with the intricacies of the situation believe that before he declined to advance more money he was a heavy loser. It may be that he dropped $500,000 or $1,000,000 in the ways of finance with which he was not entirely familiar.

The "system," known as M. J. Sage & Co., was a strange hybrid of finance—half bucket shop and half policy game. It was comprised of 165 loosely affiliated so-called correspondents. The main office underwrote their bets and backed their sheets. Each had a different name, and in some cases they used the sub title, "Correspondent of M. J. Sage & Co."

It dealt with 25,000 customers through 165 centres scattered from Jersey City as far West as Cleveland. The transactions on paper were seldom less than $400,000 daily.

FIND $2,000 IN LOOT; JAIL MAN

Timothy D. Shine of No. 10 Harrison street, Somerville, is under arrest, charged with looting six residences owned and occupied by prominent Cambridge people for whom he was a caretaker. He is alleged to have plundered about $2,000 worth of valuables.

Shine was arrested in a West End pawnshop last evening by Inspectors McCauley and Rooney of Boston police headquarters and Inspector Page of the Brookline police force, and brought to police headquarters.

The $2,000 is only the value of the property already recovered by the police in the pawnshop where Shine was arrested. The inspectors searched the prisoner's home, but found no more stolen goods.

MISSING $1,000 GOLD BOND ON ARRESTED MAN

Henry Clark Held on Suspicion of Connection With Canton Postoffice Robbery

$20,000 STOLEN IN ALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Insisted that he found the $1,000 three per cent United States Gold bond, on the street, Henry Clark, in whose possession the bond was discovered, is being held upon suspicion of knowing something about the robbery of the safe in the postoffice at Canton, Mass.

The Treasury Department at Washington sent word that the bond found on him belonged to Leon A. Billings of Canton, Mass., from whom it had been stolen on August 12. Billings was communicated with and said that not only was that bond stolen from him, but nineteen others. His total loss was over $20,000. Billings has charge of the postoffice, which is located in his store at Canton. While he was asleep over the store a gang of desperadoes broke in, bound and gagged him and then coolly dynamited the safe.

TO REACH 'FRISCO BORE 45 TUNNELS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—The Western Pacific is perfecting plans to enter California and reach 'Frisco, and when the road is completed it will be one of the greatest railroad engineering feats in modern times. Forty-five tunnels will be bored in Eastern California. The longest tunnel will be over 7,000 feet in length.

The following call was issued yesterday by the Independence League:

Wanted!

Volunteers for American Independence

OUR Independence of foreign foes was won in the past by the friends of liberty uniting and agreeing upon a determined line of action.

Our independence of modern domestic foes, equally dangerous, can be secured by organized action at the ballot box. To do this we have but to follow our declaration of principles as set out by the Independence League of Massachusetts, and show but a part of the courage of the old heroes.

The League is advancing with wondrous strides. It is easy to form local branches in the large centres of population.

We want leagues in every town in the State. We therefore call for active and sincere volunteers in every town to send us their names, to join the Independence League, and state their willingness to help form leagues in their towns.

Be among the earliest to assist in the great work of achieving our second Independence.

Address, at once, J. F. DAVIS, Secretary of the Independence League, 402 Winthrop Building, Boston, and your letter will be promptly answered.

W. N. OSGOOD.
President.

BOSS HIT LABORER; MOBBED, ARRESTED

NEW LONDON, Ct., Aug. 24.—James Riley, boss over a gang of Italians employed on the street railway in this city was mobbed yesterday because he struck Frank Serio, one of the laborers, over the head with a pickax handle. Serio was taken to the hospital with a fractured skull. Riley was chased to police headquarters by a crowd of Italians. He was locked up and held in $10,000 bonds for examination on a charge of intent to commit murder.

BRIDGE FALLS; DASHES COACH PARTY ON ROCKS

Pinned Under Timbers—Girl May Die—Rest Saved by Brave Coachman.

BABY ONLY ONE UNHURT

GREAT BARRINGTON, Aug. 24.—The old bridge across the Housatonic River here collapsed yesterday, just as a driving party of seven in a two-horse coach had reached the centre, hurling it into the water and on the rocks, twenty-five feet below. Every occupant of the carriage was more or less injured, Miss Emily Morrison of Larchmont, N. Y., sustaining a fractured spine, as a result of which the surgeons say she may die.

The others in the party were the Rev. Richard Colden, of Larchmont, N. Y., Mrs. Colden, Philip and John, their sons, and a seven-months-old baby, together with William Hasty, the coachman.

The baby was the only one unhurt. Nearly all lay on the rocks in the water, pinned down by the timbers of the bridge, but Hasty cut the traces of the plunging horses and then removed his passengers safely to the shore.

Mine Host Yorke Produces Only Visible Result of Work of Committees.

"O IT must ha' been the captain," said the colonel.
"Nay, it surely was the sergeant," quoth the cap.
"It's a shame to blame a sergeant," says the latter.
"When a corporal is probably the chap."
But—
The soldiers pass the blame along,
And swear no man of them is wrong;
And so the guilty one is, then,
Some wicked private citizen.
—Military Madrigals.

BY an infallible process of elimination the Not-Yet-But-Soon Joint Special Committee of the City Council to investigate the question of municipal lighting is absolved from all blame in connection with that $300 bill for refreshments at the Boston Tavern.

Alderman Tilton S. Bell makes the first elimination in this spirituous equation. He strikes out the aldermanic members of the committee. He's sure they didn't participate in any such unholy affair.

He substituted any or all of the councilmanic members for any or all of the aldermanic ones.

But Alderman James M. Curley, by an equally simple process, eliminates the lower branch members. Curley thinks it was some outsiders who posed as members of the committee.

There are, doubtless, men in Boston with sufficient hardihood to claim to be on the Not-Yet-But-Soon aggregation.

Before they get through it may be shown that there wasn't any such bill of expense run up and that Proprietor Charlie Yorke of the Tavern was thinking of someone else altogether. But Charles hasn't said so yet.

Alderman Bangs, chairman of the committee, has announced his firm determination to find out who of the committee has been holding sessions at the Boston Tavern with $300 worth of refreshments on the side.

Hardly Justified by Results.

With even broiled live and sparkling "Burg" for every member, the chairman thinks that a $300 bill is hardly justified by the results so far produced by the committee, seeing that the committee hasn't produced any visible results yet.

With a laudable effort to assist the chairman in shoving this probe into the "innards" of the problem, a reporter queried Alderman Charles M. Draper, chairman of the entire Board of Aldermen.

"Were you one of the lighting committee members who held sessions at the Boston Tavern?"

"No," replied Draper sadly, "that's one of the times I missed it. They didn't let me in on that."

Alderman Tilton S. Bell of the committee gave a little more definite information, however. He knew who wasn't there.

"No, I was not there," said Bell. "In fact, I haven't been in the Boston Tavern for five years. It really must have been a gang of councilmanic members of the committee. I do not believe any of the aldermen were there.

"I'm pretty sure Bangs wouldn't go, nor Berwin, nor Curley, nor Draper, nor Hennessey, nor Linehan. No, it must ha' been some councilmen."

With the trail thus growing beautifully narrow, the reporter encountered Alderman James M. Curley. The information he received here was illuminatingly eliminative. Says Curley:

"Was Some Outsider."

"No, I wasn't there. It's a long time since I've been in the Boston Tavern."

Having made it clear that his trail did not cross the Boston Tavern as a regular thing, Curley went on to say:

"I don't believe it was any member of the municipal lighting committee. It was probably some fellows passing themselves off as members of the committee."

The bill, however, which Proprietor Yorke prepared for City Auditor J. Alfred Mitchell read, "Charge to City of Boston, on account of the Committee on Municipal Lighting."

In view of the eliminations achieved by Bell and Curley, the bill might be amended to read, "On account of parties unknown, representing themselves as members of the Municipal Lighting Committee."

To paraphrase the melancholy Dane: "Alas, poor Yorke, we do him well."

Aldermen Pass It Up to Councilmen and Latter Turn It Down and Out.

ROB HARVARD MAN'S HOUSE

Since the arrest of Frank J. Tracey of Plympton street, Cambridge, on Saturday, on the charge of breaking and entering the home of Jacob Bancroft, No. 380 Harvard street, and the shooting of Reserve Officer Patrick McNamara, who arrested him as he escaped from the house, the young man's affairs have been investigated.

The police went to his house and made an inspection with a view to locating any stolen property. Among other things taken were a pair of trousers bearing the name of Professor Hugo Munsterburg of Harvard.

The police then went to Professor Munsterburg's house and learned for the first time that it had been entered and ransacked from garret to cellar. What the value of the property taken was cannot be ascertained until Professor Munsterburg returns. The family has been on a vacation all Summer.

RACED TO CATCH RUNAWAY CAR

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Racing at the rate of sixty miles an hour after a runaway freight car on a down grade between Montclair and the Passaic River yesterday, Engineer Laird, by quick wit and cool nerve, prevented what might have been a serious wreck for several passenger trains which were due at Soho, N. J., but a few minutes after the wildcat car had been caught.

Laird was not alone in his brave work, for several other trainmen who sprang into his cab risked their lives by crawling to the cowcatcher of the swaying engine and later climbing to the top of the freight car while it was going at terrific speed.

71 DAYS have elapsed since the BOSTON AMERICAN filed with the Attorney-General a formal information and petition that he bring suit to force the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad and the Boston & Albany Railroad to obey the law and to abandon the competing trolley lines which they have illegally acquired.

KING OF SIAM? OH, NO; LOGUE IS POOH BAH

Municipal Johnny-on-the-Spot Heads Nine Departments in Six Months.

KITTY IN CITY HALL GAME

And now comes Schoolhouse Commissioner and Acting Head of the Public Grounds Department Charles Logue, ex-A. H. of the S. S. S., S. [illegible] S. W. D. P. B. S. B. and P. G. D.

Logue is not the king of Siam, though his titles might indicate it. He is merely the champion acting head of Boston city departments.

He is nominally Schoolhouse Commissioner on a salary of $3,500 per year.

Practically he is the municipal Johnny-on-the-Spot.

He has been acting head of more city departments in the shortest space of time than any living, breathing man in this vale of tears and politics.

Kitty in City Hall Game.

His appointment to be acting head of the Public Grounds Department, pending the recovery of Superintendent Doogue, makes the ninth time in six months that he has been put at the head, temporarily, of a city department by Mayor John F. Fitzgerald.

Politically speaking, Logue is a kitty in the City Hall game, and is on his ninth life now. He [illegible] his present record continues, [illegible] will have to stock a whole basket of [illegible] and [illegible] enough over to supply Mrs. Katherine Tingley and the other theosophists of Point Loma with some new [illegible] for business purposes.

Logue has been acting head of the:

Street Department, which [illegible] and paving.
Sewers Department.
Sanitary Department.
Street Cleaning and Street Watering Department.
Public Buildings Department.
Supply Department.
Bridges Department.

Rise and Fall in Salary.

As acting head of anything, Mr. Logue receives the salary of the regular incumbent, providing it is bigger than his own as Schoolhouse Commissioner. If it is smaller, then nothing is said about salary. As Acting Superintendent of Streets, Mr. Logue jumped from $3,500 regular to $7,500 temporary salary. As head of the Building Department he was paid on a $5,000 basis. As Superintendent of Streets (acting) he qualified in the $5,000 class again. As understudy for Superintendent Doogue of the Public Grounds Department he rubs along on $4,000, which is $500 greater than his intermittent salary as Schoolhouse Commissioner.

FIRST OFFICIAL PHOTO OF MARIE CORELLI.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The long drawn out fight which Miss Marie Corelli has been making to protect her personal modesty and at the same time not interfere with the publicity of her fiction, has taken a new turn with the publication of her latest book, "The Treasures of Heaven."

At last she has condescended, at the special request of the publishers, Archibald Constable & Co., to allow a real photograph of herself to go before the public. It appears as the frontispiece of the new book, which is her sixteenth.

Even more surprising, as a bit of vanity, is the "author's note" which goes with the frontispiece in the English edition of "The Treasures of Heaven." She declares that a portrait of herself was taken in the Spring of this year and she explains her feelings about it.

"I am somewhat reluctant," she writes, "to see it so placed because it has nothing whatever to do with the story which is told in the following pages, beyond being a faithful likeness of the author who is responsible for this and many other previous books which have had the good fortune to meet with a friendly reception from the reading public. Moreover, I am not quite able to convince myself that my pictured personality can have any interest for my readers, as it has always seemed to me that an author's real being is more disclosed in his or her work than in any portrayed presentment of mere physiognomy."

Permission to use the photograph has been refused English newspapers and magazines.

SHOT WIFE, KISSED HER AS SHE DIED

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 24.—Policeman Michael McNamara last night shot and killed his wife and then sent a bullet through the heart of James B. Brophy in the clerk's office of a hotel. Mrs. McNamara was shot in the back and fell down stairs. McNamara gathered the body in his arms and kissed her as she died.

HUNDREDS IN PANIC CAUSED BY RUNAWAY

Horse Attached to Heavy Express Wagon Dashes Through Pemberton Square.

MANY NARROW ESCAPES

Scores of women and men who were hastening to their work today were in peril of their lives for a few moments when a runaway horse dragging a heavily laden express wagon, owned by the Maritime Express Company of Long Wharf, dashed down the hill from Somerset street and swung into Pemberton square, which was densely crowded at the time.

Women shrieked and men shouted in alarm as they dodged hither and thither. The horse galloped right through the crowds and whirled down the declivity, avoiding the wagons, carriages and other vehicles which were drawn up in the square.

The wagon, which was laden with the trunks of returning tourists, was in charge of Driver Edward Sargent. Just as he turned from Somerset street into Pemberton square at the Court House, the breeching broke and the harness fell about the horse's heels, frightening him. In an instant the animal started down the crowded square, scattering people right and left.

One well-dressed woman narrowly escaped death or injury, for she was almost under the feet of the horse before she knew her danger. Shouts alarmed her just in time for her to leap clear of the wheels of the wagon.

STORK HOLDS UP "L" ROAD

The entire south-bound section of the Boston elevated railway was held up for half an hour yesterday at Northampton street because of a visit of the stork to one of the cars.

The mother, Mrs. Evangeline Dean of Somerville, was on her way to a Roxbury hospital, when she was suddenly taken sick. The brakeman on her car divined the cause of her distress and held the train at Northampton street and cleared the car. A doctor was sent for, and as soon as possible an ambulance took the mother and child to the City Hospital. At last reports both are doing well.

HUYLER DUPED BY HUB MAN'S SPIRIT PICTURE

Love Syndicate Probe Reveals Plan to Swindle Legatee of Luther R. Marsh.

MRS. VERRAULT VANISHES

An attempt by Frank Mason, brother of the fair Izella Brown of "Love Syndicate" fame, to swindle John J. Huyler, friend of Luther R. Marsh, the famous victim of Mme. Diss Debar, was reported yesterday to Assistant District Attorney Carmody at New York.

Mason, alias Frank Algerton, a famous Boston spiritualist, went to Middletown, N. Y. There he made the acquaintance of John J. Huyler, who had become interested in spiritualism through the influence of Luther R. Marsh. Mr. Marsh, after his trouble with Ann O'Delia Diss Debar, went to live with the Huylers. Mrs. Huyler was a medium, and it was generally thought that Marsh would leave his fortune to her, but the woman died first and the famous lawyer, at his death, left the estate to Mr. Huyler.

Posed as a Nobleman.

Mason introduced himself as Sir William Wallace Montgomery, globe trotter and member of the British nobility. He told Huyler, it is said, that while travelling in Australia and visiting the penal colony he had been approached by a convict who, he said, had heard he was an American. He said the convict had told him that his brother, John J. Huyler, lived at Middletown, N. Y.

"I do not know if he is alive," the man was quoted as saying, "but on your return, if you find him, tell him this from me: I have the secret of a great gold mine. The British officials are aware of this and are trying to extort it from me by threats. If I can only get my release and it would cost me four or five thousands I could start this mine. And if you bear this message and bring back the money, getting it from my brother, I shall divide the proceeds of the mine with you and him."

Never Had Heard of Brother.

Mr. Huyler had never heard of this brother and was equally surprised when Mason told him that he had left America for killing a man. Spiritualistic seances were held, and shortly afterward the existence of this brother was "revealed" to Huyler, it is said. He was pictured breaking down in a far off country.

Then Huyler learned of the masquerade and returned to Middletown, still holding the $5,000 which he had brought down to buy his brother's freedom.

A pall hung over "the house with the green shutters," at No. 323 West Eighty-second street, New York, yesterday.

Wants Teeth or His Money.

The only one who maintained his persistence and would not be sent away was a representative of Dr. Joseph Fournier of No. 66 East Fifty-eighth street. He came after Mrs. Verrault's fine front teeth, which he said were false, and for which, he claims, he has never been paid. His bill is $105. He did not get the money yesterday—nor the teeth.

There was a rumor that Mrs. Verrault had left the house, and it is a fact that neighbors have not seen her within the last two days.

She is alleged to have departed in a cab and to have gone to the Grand Central Station with a steamer trunk. It is believed the woman has gone to Montreal.

Palmist Holds Sway Over Newport Society Women

MRS STUYVESANT FISH

Mrs. Fish Dares Not Go Away. Miss Robinson Awaits "Dark Man."

NEWPORT, Aug. 24.—Professor Willis of Newport, who modestly styles himself "The World's Greatest Palmist and Clairvoyant," told Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish something that happened to come true, and on that statement and from her press agent work he has acquired a reputation and amassed a respectable fortune.

The other morning Mrs. Fish met him on the avenue—off came her glove and soon they both were lost in tracing the tiny lines. Suddenly Mrs. Fish caught sight of Harry Lehr hurrying toward the florist for his morning gardenia.

"Harry! Come here! I want you!"

And Harry did.

"I'm not going away, Harry. The Professor says I mustn't," with an air of finality.

The Professor hastened to assure her that he could not impress too firmly upon her mind the necessity for not leaving Newport at present.

Just what the seer predicted for Mrs. Fish that came true, the mistress of Crossways is telling no one. Mrs. Reggie joins Mrs. Fish in a realized prediction, but poor Lotta Robinson has no testimony to offer.

She was to receive a proposal from a dark man before she left Newport. Her time is limited till September 1, so her role is to watch and wait.

There is a carriage route from Sandy Point Farm to the Professor's little office on Division street. For Mrs. George Law, who always accompanies the Reggie Vanderbilts on these palm-reading expeditions, is anxious to learn the identity of the dark stranger who is infatuated.

The Professor, since discovering himself, has painted a brand new sign and put it in the window, containing the following depreciatory remarks about himself:

"I can tell you the name and address of the one you will marry, also the date of marriage. I can tell you how to win the affections of the one you most desire, even though miles away. I also tell about business, old estates, bonds and journeys."

All this he does for $2 per, and the deposit he made in a Newport bank two days ago shows he is busy during office hours.

LABOR NEWS

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL BOSTON, MASS. 96

Unions to march in the Building Trades Council Labor Day parade will draw for positions in line to-night at No. 18 Kneeland street. The misunderstanding in regard to the organization of the new building trades section of the Central Labor Union between the officers of the Central Labor Union and the Building Trades Council has not been straightened out yet, and the twentieth anniversary of Labor Day will probably be celebrated by two distinct parades.

Although the Central Labor Union has been discussing and arranging for a new section for fully eight months, and rules for its guidance have been incorporated into the constitution of the C. L. U., the Building Trades Council, most of whose officers are delegates to the C. L. U., or former delegates, makes the claim that while it is favorably inclined to the new section, it wishes more time to adapt itself to the new conditions.

The Building Trades Council parade will start at 9:30 a. m. from Copley square, and the Boston Central Labor Union, Building Trades Section of C. L. U., and District 30, K. of L., original, procession will move at 10 a. m.

MACHINISTS FOR BUCKALEW.

Machinists' Lodge No. 264 at last night's meeting voted to join in the appeal to be made to the International office at Washington that Third Vice-President John D. Buckalew be appointed to District No. 19 to fill the vacancy caused by the transfer of Sixth Vice-President Walter Ames to Western territory. Daniel Fitzgerald and Thomas O'Brien were chosen to fill vacancies on the executive board.

PARADE OR $5 FINE.

Bartenders' Union will have 1,400 men in the Labor Day parade, in two divisions. Every man who does not march will be fined $5. President John D. O'Brien will be chief marshal, Robert Callahan marshal, William B. Kirkpatrick assistant marshal, John J. Quinn chief of staff and John J. Galvin chief of aides. The aides will be William F. Mulligan, James Mantle, John D. McCraig, Joseph Smith, Richard W. Kennedy, Thomas F. Mooney, Richard W. Garrity, Patrick H. Sullivan, R. J. McCormack, M. J. McDonough, P. F. Egan and John J. Cosgrove.

CIGARMAKERS' MEETING.

Two international delegates to the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor will be elected by Cigarmakers' Union No. 97 at to-night's meeting. The candidates are George R. French of Louisville, Morris Brown of New York, John T. Smith of Kansas City and Patrick Mahoney of Boston. A vote will also be taken on the proposition of levying eight weekly assessments of twenty-five cents each to pay the international as a deficiency.

LABOR NOTES.

President A. M. Huddell will be [illegible] marshal of Hoisting and Portable Engineers' Union in the Labor Day parade of the C. L. U., Building Trades Section and K. of L., original.

Pattern Makers' Association has voted to increase its initiation fee from $5 to $10 and the reinstatement fee to $20.

A meeting to form a district council of Lathers' unions of eastern Massachusetts will be held in Wells Memorial building next Tuesday night.

At last night's meeting of Chelsea Central Labor Union President James Blyth was congratulated on completing his twenty-fifth year as a member of Cigarmakers' Union No. 97.

The Ward 14 Wage Earners' Club meets to-night at the residence of President J. Frank O'Hare, No. 600 East Fourth street, South Boston.

GIRL IS HEIR TO $7,000,000

WATERBURY, Aug. 23.—Miss Mae C. Dorsey, daughter of Dennis Dorsey, and a teacher in the public school, is the heir to a great portion of the estate of a grand uncle, Thomas Ward, of Mexico, who was a general in the United States service, and who accumulated $7,000,000, it is said, and died without will.

The Dorseys heard the news this evening. Besides Dennis Dorsey, there are Mrs. Edward Walsh and Mrs. Charles W. McCarthy, of New York city, nieces of the deceased.

JEWS FLEE IN DREAD OF SLAUGHTER

Bomb Explosions and Arrests Point to Terrors Like Those at Bialystok.

SEVEN ARE SHOT DOWN

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 24.—Jewish circles in Russia are alarmed over developments at Siedlce, Poland, where events seem to be shaping up for the outbreak of a programme similar to that at Bialystok. The developments parallel almost exactly the preliminaries of the Bialystok massacre. A long series of revolutionary and terroristic signs have been attributed by the police, culminating as was the case at Bialystok, in the assassination of the Chief of Police, Goltseff.

The funeral of Goltseff yesterday was the occasion of a great demonstration by the Russian population. The condition of feeling is shown by the refusal of Goltseff's widow to receive a wreath sent by a Jewish society as a mark of its approval of the assassination. A similar incident, it will be remembered, occurred at Bialystok.

After the explosion of a bomb in a street of the Hebrew quarter and which, according to the official explanation, was accompanied by revolver firing from four Jewish houses, the troops opened a general fusillade, in which seven Jews and one Christian were killed and many wounded. Thirty-three Jews were arrested on the spot on suspicion of complicity in the bomb throwing and firing. The Jews in panic are now fleeing the city. Siedlce is in the province of the same name, which adjoins the province of Grodno, in which Bialystok is located, and the two cities are about sixty miles apart.

Congressman Hale of Tennessee denounced peek-a-boo waists and now is in danger of defeat because the women of his district are indignant and campaigning against him. See next Sunday's

DISSECTION OF BODY STOPPED

After learning that her father, William Donavan, was dead and that his body was at the Harvard Medical School awaiting dissection, Mrs. Ann Chaison of Salem went to the authorities of the institution, took possession of the body and brought it to the undertaking rooms of O. P. Doonan, Malden, where funeral services were held yesterday. William Donavan died at the Bridgewater State Farm, July 20. No one claimed his remains and he was accordingly turned over to the medical school. It was known that he had a son and a daughter, but little effort was made apparently to locate them.

CUPID DEFIES '23' AND '13'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—If there is luck in odd numbers the union of Miss Jeannie Martin and George B. Gengan, both of this city, will be a shining mark for a deluge of the good in life. Miss Martin and her fiance are each twenty-three years of age. They took out their license yesterday, August 23, Miss Martin herself applying for the right to wed.

The document duly signed and sealed was the thirteenth license issued during the day by the license clerk. The name of bride and bridegroom each contains thirteen letters.

LIGHTED MATCH; ALCOHOL EXPLODED

BENNINGTON, Vt., Aug. 24.—Because alcohol did not run freely from a barrel in his store, William L. Gokey, a druggist, lighted a match to investigate. The alcohol exploded and Gokey will probably die.

THREE WOMEN CALL YOUTH OF 23 HUSBAND

Young Man Who Posed as Married in Newton Upper Falls to Face Charge in Lowell.

THEN THERE IS CAMBRIDGE

James B. Fisher, a Newton Upper Falls youth, arrested on a charge of having too many wives, was taken to Lowell to-day to answer to the original charge preferred by the Lowell police.

Fisher is only twenty-three years old. He has been living at No. 16 Colombia avenue, Newton Upper Falls, with a woman supposed by the neighborhood to be his wife, and with a three-weeks-old baby.

A Lowell woman told the police she was his real wife. On her complaint Fisher was arrested at home by the Newton police and taken to the police station of that city.

There, however, according to Lieutenant Soule of the Newton force, Fisher said that his real wife was living in Cambridge. The police are now trying to find out whether this Cambridge woman represents a second or third wife.

On account of Fisher's youth the police are amazed at the apparent multiplicity of marriages. Inquiries about Newton showed them that Fisher had been living quietly and was apparently very domestic in his habits, evincing much fondness for his supposed Newton wife and for the three-weeks-old infant.

GIRL IN CASE OF LOST PASTOR?

FALL RIVER, Aug. 24.—The mystery conected with the disappearance of Rev. Frank W. Wheeler is explained somewhat to-day, according to rumor. It is said that recently Rev. Mr. Wheeler has been cordial and demonstrative toward one of the younger members of his flock, and his conduit led the board of deacons to ask him to resign.

Mr. Wheeler's resignation was received Monday and was mailed in Fall River at 6 o'clock Sunday.

The whereabouts of the missing pastor are still unknown.

Elmer Wheeler of Wakefield has asked the Boston police to assist in finding the missing minister.

SYLVANIA BEAT OCEAN RIVAL

After speeding across the Atlantic at an average speed of 13.50 knots an hour, the Cunard line freighter Sylvania, Captain C. B. Cresser, arrived in port yesterday afternoon from Liverpool. The big freighter made 337 and 312 as her best days' run.

It is the first trip here of the Sylvania since she left port in company with the Leyland liner Canadian on July 24. The two vessels left port, side by side, for an ocean race. When night fell the Sylvania was well to the eastward of the Canadian, and arrived in Liverpool seven hours ahead of her rival.

Those fans who like real scrappy ball games should make it their business to get out to the Huntington Avenue Baseball Grounds this afternoon, where the Ravens and the Pilgrims will do battle in their second game of a series of three.

Judging by the exhibition of yesterday, the teams are evenly matched, and it will be a fast demonstration of the diamond sport from beginning to end.

The Bostons are playing great ball these days. It's a big contrast to the brand they put up when they played their former engagement at home. The men are stinging the ball hard, and that counts a big bit as to whether a game is interesting or not.

Parent and Ferris Themselves Again.

Moreover, Fred Parent, at short and Hobe Ferris, at second, are fielding their positions as they did in former years, when the Boston American team was the pride of the baseball world. The outfielders are working fast, and are batting fairly well.

Jimmy Collins is confident that his braves will turn the tables on the McAleerites to-day. Yesterday's victory was not a clean-cut one for the visitors, and Collins says that if his men land the game it will be by a wide margin.

"Tanny" May Pitch To-day.

It's doubtful as to whether Jesse Tannehill, the crack southpaw, will be able to get into the game. He has not pitched since the first game with the White Sox, and was batted rather hard on that occasion. If his ankle is in shape to-day, he will be the Boston selection for the box, otherwise either Joe Harris or Ralph Glaze will be sent to the front.

Harry Howell, who helped Harris to umpire yesterday in lieu of Umpire Tim Hurst, will most likely be summoned to face the Boston batters.

He is one of the best twirlers on the staff of the visitors, and the chances are that he will make it as hot for the home team as Jack Powell, the big slabman, did yesterday.

The score of yesterday's game was 3 to 1. Jack Powell won his own game, as it was his home-run drive in the fifth inning, with two men on base, that was responsible for the three runs for the Ravens.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

There was not an error made by either side during the game.

* * *

Winter's pass to Hemphill in the ninth was the only base on balls. However, Powell hit Grimshaw in the second.

* * *

Stone did some great fielding for the Ravens. He caught one fly off Stahl's bat in the seventh that was labelled two bases.

* * *

Hayden should run out his hits. He hit a grounder to Powell in the ninth, and turned around and walked to the bench.

* * *

Powell's homer was a great piece of luck, as the ball bounded into the third-base bleachers.

* * *

There were three double plays made, the Bostons making two and the Ravens one.

* * *

The Bostons got two singles in the first, but Hayden and Stahl were both caught stealing second.

ASK PRESIDENT TO SEE BOUT

GOLDFIELD, Nev., Aug. 24.—Although there was a great deal of pressure brought to bear upon the officials of the Goldfield Athletic Club to have another referee appointed to replace George Siler, the Chicago man will be the third man in the ring on Labor Day, when Battling Nelson and Joe Gans meet in their finish fight for the lightweight championship of the world. This decision was reached by Tex Rickard to-day, and is undoubtedly final.

The objection to Siler as referee is largely due to the decision which he gave in the recent mill between Frank Carsey and Abe Attell. These two boys met in a fifteen-round bout at Grand Rapids, Mich., and Siler was the judge. After the fight he announced that the fight was Attell's. The place was crowded with friends of Carsey, and they gave unmistakable notice of their disagreement with the referee. It was said that Carsey was at least entitled to a draw. The fact was, as afterward learned, that Carsey had stood off Attell for the first few rounds and that then the champion landed punches on him almost at will.

Natives Object to Siler.

For some time it looked as if there would be a big disturbance over the selection of Siler. Numbers of the sporting men here went to the officials of the club and discussed the matter. They were told that Siler was the selection of both Gans and Nelson, and that their opinion was the principal one. Everywhere in town the discussion was taken up, and groups of excited sports were gathered in nearly every saloon to talk it over. That is just as far as it went, however. The athletic club officials took no further steps, merely allowing matters to stand as they were.

Even if there were any intention on the part of the club officials to pay attention to the demands made to them, it is hardly likely that any change could be made. Gans and Nelson would probably not meet again to talk the thing over. They would insist on keeping Siler, for fear of crooked work from the outside. At any rate, Siler's past record is with him. He has refereed hundreds of fights and during all his years has not been known to have any dishonest connections.

President Roosevelt Invited.

There is one feature of the fight that none of the local merchants and tradesmen have lost sight of. That is, its advertising possibilities. Now that Gans and Nelson are to be combatants on Labor Day, the name Goldfield has undoubtedly circled the globe several times, but that does not entirely satisfy the Goldfielders. Larry Sullivan, the representative of Joe Gans, said to-day that he had invited President Roosevelt to attend the fight in the following telegram:

Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, Executive Chamber, Washington, D. C.:

Goldfield extends to you a cordial invitation to attend the Nelson-Gans contest for the lightweight championship of the world, to be held in Goldfield on Labor Day. The citizens of Goldfield, having conquered the desert, and being made of the stuff that makes men endure to win in any struggle, look upon this contest as a battle worth travelling thousands of miles to see. Imbued with that spirit of sturdiness which makes the argonaut, they view the approaching event as an exemplification of that determination of purpose and aggressiveness of spirit that so dominantly characterizes the American race and which has in a great measure conduced to the advancement of our beloved country. L. M. SULLIVAN.

Although it is likely that Roosevelt will appreciate the spirit in which the Goldfielders invited him, it is not expected that he will accept the courtesy, because he has already arranged to appear at the naval review at Oyster Bay.

GREAT FIELD OF TROTTERS WILL START IN RICH MASSACHUSETTS STAKE TO-DAY AT READVILLE

PROBABLE WINNERS AT READVILLE

"THE MASSACHUSETTS."

Nutboy first, Jack Wilkes second, Dr. Chase third.

"THE READVILLE."

Angiola first, Mainsheet second, Leonardo third.

2:13 CLASS, PACING.

Vesta Boy first, Wilson Addington second, Spill third.

BY EDWARD E. COGSWELL.

With The Massachusetts, valued at $9,000, the Readville of $3,000 and the 2:13 pace there will be plenty to attract an enormous crowd to the Readville Grand Circuit meeting this afternoon. It looks like the best day's racing the country has seen this year, and the only wish the local horsemen were having last evening was the rain called quits before damaging the track enough to cause a postponement.

When the declarations were in with Secretary Jewett at seven last evening, it was found that few had elected to keep their horses in the stable. When the race is called this afternoon sixteen of the original number of entries will parade before the grand stand. Those who were declared out were Flexa, Grattan Boy, Jr., Czarina Dawson, Mamie R., Minter, Nickel Grattan, Prince Edward and Yo San.

Of the starters, Nutboy, the property of "Lotta" and Jack Crabtree of Boston and driven by Myron McHenry, will be the selected one by the talent to win the event. It was in the Winter the horse was bought by his present owners. Last season he was nearly invincible over all kind of tracks, and retired with a record of 2:15½.

Jack Wilks will have the Cleveland driver, Vance Nuckols, behind him, and this is sufficient to show he will be ably handled for all there is in sight. Last year he raced around 2:08, and, while he has not to date displayed that form this season, yet rumor has it Nuckols has been racing him with the sole idea of having him trained to the minute for the Massachusetts.

Last week Allie Jay won a good race at Poughkeepsie, getting a mark of 2:10. She has not been any too reliable, having the habit of wanting to break when the question is placed to her any too strongly. Ben Kenney has been extremely careful with her and has gained her confidence so she will stick to a trot. With her known speed it may be she will behave so nicely as to be a strong factor.

Henry Titer likes Betty Brook. He shipped her to Buffalo to give her a trying out in select company, and it is known how he came home with his face all smiles, as the daughter of Silent Brook was separately timed her heats in around 2:10. And so on all through the list of sixteen, each has more than ordinary ability as racing propositions.

READVILLE STARTERS TO-DAY.

The Massachusetts, 2:14 Class, Trotting. $9,000, divided: $2,100 to first, $600 to second, $300 to third, each race.

ON THE QUARTERSTRETCH.

Going to see the Massachusetts stake decided this afternoon?

* * *

To make good measure there is the Readville, too, which alone is certain to be worth a trip to see.

* * *

No more betting at the Readville meeting is the verdict. The legal lights are of the opinion that it is only delaying the rights of the horsemen the higher court is sure to give them when the decision on the test case is rendered.

* * *

Those remarks by the judge of the Dedham district court did not make him at all popular with the horsemen, judging from the expressions heard in the hotel lobbies.

* * *

Geers stands close to the hearts of the public. This was demonstrated when he was winning with Golddust Maid. A follower of the races was heard to say that if all of the drivers were of the same cut of cloth as Geers the grandstands at the race tracks in the country would not be large enough to begin to accomodate the crowds. Still there are more honest drivers than many persons believe. It is safe to say nine out of ten are more straightforward than are the same percentage of men in other callings. It is the one crooked driver that makes all of the trouble for the rest and the good of the sport.

C. W. Lasell must have been pleased in the showing that Lady Resolute made. In the final race of the series in the 2:12 trot she responded gamely all through the stretch.

POOLE ENTERTAINS FRIENDS

By J. C. KERRISON.

That prince of good fellows and royal entertainer, John L. Poole of the Aerocar, entertained a party of his friends at the Cliff Club, Marblehead, last evening. It was one of those little dinners which always leaves a pleasant recollection of men and things, and such as does much toward cementing friendships inaugurated years ago. Mr. Poole often comes to Boston, but not since his return from abroad has he had an opportunity to get together the men of this city who have known him for a large number of years. Last evening was the opportunity, and it was improved by everyone bidden to the feast of good things and reason. It was early in the evening when two touring cars and the speedy runabout of the Aerocar Company left Boston, traveling to Marblehead via the boulevards. At the club the party enjoyed a lobster dinner. While it rained and rained outside stories of other days, and conjectures as to the outcoming of the Vanderbilt trials were recited. The party consisted of Mr. Poole, Harry W. Doherty, Bert Averill, J. J. McNamara, Mr. Sargent, W. H. Wheelock, Joseph Porter, Mr. Burt and the writer. Harry Doherty drove the model C runabout a veritable speedister, possessed of sufficient power and ability as to break all the speed laws from here to kingdom come. The latter car traveled over the roads in excellent shape, the only regrettable feature being the inability of the operator to display its real speed and ability, owing to the speed regulations.

* * *

Benjamin Briscoe, president of the Maxwell-Briscoe Company, was in town yesterday looking over the field. He says that his camp of racing men and machines will immediately be established on the Long Island course. They expect to get in a lot of training practice preparatory to the holding of the preliminaries. He has great expectations in the smaller of the two racing cars, although satisfied that the twelve-cylinder can show speed when need be. He is, however, more satisfied to pin his faith on the smaller machine for the elimination.

The Massachusetts Highway Commission has opened the roads of Nantucket to the motorists, the use thereof being subject only to the State laws governing motor vehicles. Some three months ago the selectmen of Nantucket excluded motorists from these roads. This decision of the commission sets aside the act of the selectmen.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 24.—It's up to Lindaman to-day to show his calibre against the Cardinals in the last game of the series before the tailenders depart to meet the Cubs in Chicago. The Back Bay team will have to play a little better ball to be permitted inside the Chicago club's gates. Of course, the team is in a very crippled condition, and will of necessity have to borrow another amateur player when the team gets to the Windy City. Howard, Brown and Dolan are still strolling around in the vicinity of second and third.

The team lost again yesterday, escaping a whitewash through the wildness of Boston. Dorner worked for Boston, and pitched a good article of ball. He was poorly supported, however, in the early stages of the game.

M'LEAN READY FOR LONG RACE

An hour race with Hugh MacLean, the star riding against Elmer Collins and Menus Bedell is the attraction at the Revere track to-morrow night.

It will be the first race for MacLean since he recovered from his reversal of form, and it will also be the first time that Elmer Collins, the boy wonder faces him. Collins has won every race he has entered this season, but he has yet to beat MacLean and the veteran has no idea of being headed off. Collins has created so many surprises this season that he cause Hughey to bow to his excellent riding.

Bedell is riding like a fiend and was a strong factor last week till his motor broke a part and he lost some valuable ground.

A ten-mile race for amateurs with prizes on every mile will bring out the sprinters.

DESHLER HAS OFFER.

That Dave Deshler is getting the consideration of outside boxing clubs is evident by the offer received by Manager Tom McDonough yesterday, for Dave to meet Kid Sullivan at Baltimore some time next month. All McDonough desires is the assurance that the referee will be a square one as he knows what to expect in the Oriole city.

GANS WILL NOT DARE TO FAKE

BY TAD.

The coming Gans-Nelson battle at Goldfield, Nevada, is the talk of the hour.

It is, in fact, the fight of the age. There never were two greater men than Nelson and Gans, and the meeting of a fighter with a master boxer and fighter is what causes the talk.

Gans is, without doubt, the greatest man that the world has ever seen at his weight, and there only was one man who could be mentioned in the class of Nelson, and that is George Lavigne, the "Saginaw Kid."

As far as the honesty of the battle is concerned, it is one hundred to one that it will be on the level. The men at Goldfield, Nevada, are not dudes and are not the least bit afraid of saying what they mean.

Dr. C. Tillman, who was the physician of the Yosemite Club in San Francisco, and who is now in Goldfield, will examine the fighters for "Tex" Rickard. In writing to a friend in this city about the "go" he says in part:

"We will have the great Nelson-Gans fight here in the little burg of 10,000 inhabitants and it will be the event of the century. These fellows came up with the change fast enough—that was the least of the trouble. Any one of the promoters could have held the fight in his back yard of a Sunday morning to show the little boys of the family some rough house.

"George Winfield, one of the backers, is a fellow who landed here three years ago broke. He had a bunch of pluck, a good head and some luck and now his mines are pouring out gold as fast as it could be dumped into a ship. 'Tex' Rickard, the matchmaker, is the backer of a couple of big gambling houses, and also a miner. 'The Northern,' a gambling house in Nome, Alaska, so often referred to in Rex Beaches' story, 'The Spoilers,' was owned and managed by Rickard. A place of the same name and character is being run here by Rickard and his partner, Ole Elliot.

"It is the Harry Corbett's of Goldfield. Ole Elliot, another of the promoters, a millionaire mine owner, came here two years ago with three dollars in his jeans. He walked from Reno, a distance of 250 miles, over the sands. One of his mines, the Mohawk, is paying $3,000 to each ton of dirt. Just think—ten tons of that and the fight would be paid for.

"These fellows are not the Fifth avenue variety of millionaires. They go around in their shirtsleeves, drink whiskey with the boys and don't polish their shoes. It made me smile to read in a paper the other day an article saying the fight might be a fake.

"Someone would have a terrible lot of bad luck if anything crooked was pulled off here. If Mr. Gans faked anything here he would be buried under the ring and the ceremonies performed before the audience had left the grounds.

"Every one there packs a big forty-five calibre Gatling gun and the boys are not very long on manners. Each one of these fellows promoting the fight has a few nicks in his gun and only last year one of them killed a man who tried to do him up on the main street.

"I am to be medical examiner, but will pay particular attention to their heads to see if they are foolish enough to do anything crooked. Things are a little higher here in Goldfield than they were in 'Frisco. Three rooms with running water and electric light draw $75 a month."

Congressman Hale of Tennessee denounced peek-a-boo waists and now is in danger of defeat because the women of his district are indignant and campaigning against him. See next Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN.

The Best Letter Will Win 'Happy House'

Some Bright Girl Will Own the Big Doll House and Its Furnishings

A BRIGHT little girl way up in Maine has sent the Doll House Editor a very pretty picture of herself and her own doll house, with which she had lots of fun. The charming photograph is here reproduced, together with a portion of her letter.

She says she would love to own "Happy House" too. Of course she would like to have it for her very own. And some girl will have it before very long now.

Here is the letter which accompanied the photograph:

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

I enclose my picture taken with my small doll house. The pictures of the beautiful "Happy House," make me wish I could have that too. I should keep the "Happy House" neat and clean, by dusting rather than too much washing, as I find that water often destroys instead of cleans. I should treat the children kindly. They would have a good education, and both house and children would have proper care in every way.

CATHERINE CURRIER, 12 years.
Hallowell, Me.

It's quite an undertaking, you know, to keep a big house in perfect order and take entire care of a young family.

There is hardly an hour of the day that Mrs. Happy is not called on to soothe some small, woful heart.

To be a good mother means to be the very best thing in the world, and a good mother is usually a pretty good housekeeper, for she knows that in order to keep her children well and happy she must keep them comfortable.

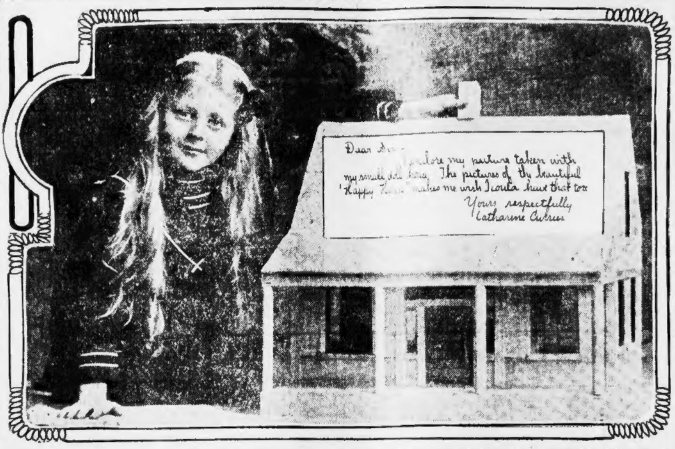
How would you make your children happy if you were a grown woman with a home and family of your own?

Would you be a thoughtful, loving mother and a capable, economical housekeeper?

Write and tell the Doll House Editor just what you would do.

The beautiful doll's house will be given to the little girl who writes the best letter.

Address your letters to the Doll House Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN, No. 80 Summer street, Boston.



Dear [illegible]
[illegible] my picture taken with my small doll house. The pictures of the beautiful "Happy House" makes me wish I could have that too
Yours respectfully
Catharine Currier

Sulkiness Destroys Your Looks As Well As Your Disposition

By Beatrice Fairfax

WE all know the girl who goes around with a chip on her shoulder.

She is always ready to be offended; her feelings are hurt at every turn.

She is so keenly on the lookout for slights that she finds them where no one else would dream of doing so.

One can take no pleasure in her society on account of having to be so very careful to avoid hurting those hyper-sensitive feelings.

The girl herself is usually conscious of her weakness and makes many an attempt to conquer it, but it is a very difficult quality to get the better of.

If you are one of those easily offended people, try and remember that the fault is almost invariably on your side.

People are not trying to hurt your feelings; half the time they do not even know wherein they have offended when you go off in the sulks.

The sulky person is no pleasure to herself, nor any one else.

Soon Tire of It

AT first her friends will try to smooth things over and win her back to good temper, but they soon tire of it, and finally leave her to sulk by herself.

There is no quality in the world that the majority of people so like as cheerfulness.

Of course it is often a satisfaction to let people see that you are angry and offended, but it is a pretty miserable sort of satisfaction after all, and one that brings no lasting content.

The only thing that does bring content is the knowledge that people love you.

And people cannot love the sulk; she wont let them.

Try and like everybody, and you will find that every one will like you.

Don't pick up every little offence and magnify it into an insult.

The world will take you just as it finds you. If you are cheerful, it will make much of you. If you are sulky and morose it will leave you alone.

If people want to be friendly toward you, try and respond to their overtures of friendship.

If you are shy and cannot respond at least try and look as though you would like to.

Charms of Manner

A BRIGHT, happy personality is wonderfully charming. Some people are born with it and it is no effort for them to be cheerful.

Others have to fight unceasingly against their moroseness.

But they can win if they keep at it, and the reward is great enough to encourage them to return to the charge again and again.

The first time you find yourself inclined to indulge in a fit of the sulks just say to yourself, "The fault is mine and sulking will only make people dislike me; I won't give in to it." Before you are aware of it, your ugly feelings will have disappeared.

There is another thing that should keep any girl from sulking, and that is the exceeding unbecomingness of a sulky expression.

The prettiest face in the world would be spoiled by the sulks.

So you see you positively cannot afford to run in your looks as well as your disposition by the sulks.

EGGS BROUILLE

SIX eggs, half a cup of milk, or, better still, of cream; two mushrooms, one teaspoonful of salt, a little pepper, three tablespoonfuls of butter, a slight grating of nutmeg.

Cut the mushrooms into dice, and fry them for one minute in one tablespoonful of butter. Beat the eggs, salt, pepper and cream together, and put them in a saucepan. Add the butter and mushrooms to these ingredients.

Stir over a moderate heat until the mixture begins to thicken. Take from the fire and beat rapidly until the eggs become quite thick and creamy. Have slices of toast on a hot dish. Heap the mixture on these, and garnish with points of toast. Serve immediately.

Letters From Girls Who Are Trying Hard to Win

HERE are some of the best letters received yesterday from little girls who are trying hard to win "Happy House" and the "Happy" family; take plenty of time and see if you can write a better letter on housekeeping than the best of these.

HEAR THEIR PRAYERS

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

If I had a house and some children, first I would get up and get breakfast; then I would dress my children, give them their breakfast and send them out to play. I would make them play in the shade and with good children. Then I would wash my dishes and sweep and dust. Then I would get dinner and call the children in. Then I would wash my dishes and give the children a bath, dress them up and take them down to the beach and let them paddle. At 5 o'clock I would bring them home, give them their supper, hear their prayers and put them to bed. Then I would wash my dishes and sew till 9 o'clock. Then I would go to bed, too.

VIOLET M. BROWNE, 8 years.
No. 699 Huntington avenue, Boston.

LIKE MAMMA

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

If I were a housekeeper, I would have a system like mamma's. I would get up early in the morning, so as to have all my work done by noon and have the afternoon to sew, make calls or take the children out. I would put children to bed early, and would give them lots of fresh fruit and cereals, and send them to school every day and Sunday school, too. I always help mamma dust and wash dishes, so I am learning every day to be a nice housekeeper mamma says.

EDNA M. SHAY, 10 years.
No. 30 Elmwood avenue, Wollaston.

VERY THANKFUL

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

When I am a lady and own a home, I will keep everything neat and clean. I would be up early and get breakfast. While eating I would teach children table manners. After breakfast wash, dress and put baby to sleep. After airing my rooms, prepare dinner. While it was cooking make beds and tidy rooms. After dinner wash dishes and give children nap. While they are sleeping do mending. When they wake take them walking. When time return and have supper. Then wash, kiss and put children to bed. Then I would thank God for the "Happy Family."

VIOLA O'DONNELL, 11 years.
No. 126 Winter street, Haverhill.

VERY HAPPY FAMILY

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

If I were keeping house I would clean it thoroughly every Friday and Saturday; have a place for everything and teach the children to keep everything in place, that the house may always be neat. The washing and ironing must be done at the first of the week and the children kept clean. I would be kind and gentle with them, and they must be obedient and polite, go to bed early and arise early, and get lots of fresh air and good food. I would sew, mend and play with them and we would be a very happy family.

MARGUERITE E. KNAPP, 11 years.
No. 42 Munroe st., Roxbury.

GOLDEN RULES

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

In my house I should have these mottoes: "A place for everything and everything in its place," and "A time for everything and everything on time." And I should try to follow these mottoes. I should teach my children to do unto others as they would like to be done by.

E. WILMA GREENE, 8 years.
No. 26 Sherman street, Roxbury.

A LITTLE MOTHER

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

If I were to keep house, I would get up early in the morning, say my prayers, air the bed and call the children, then get breakfast ready. After breakfast each child would have to do so much work, then they could go out and play. I'd go to market and get nice vegetables for dinner, and have light supper, and put the children to bed early.

NELLIE T. BROWN, 12 years.
No. 61 Regent street, Roxbury.

WOULD GET UP EARLY

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

I would get up at 5 o'clock in the morning and get breakfast ready, and then wake my children and dress them and then take them down stairs and wash them. After they got through breakfast I would wash them again. I would give them wholesome food. I would take the best care of them that I could.

Baby's Clothes Should be Suited to Sudden Changes in Weather

BY DR. IDA BADANES

Babies Fall Prey to Disease in Summer Because They Are Not Cool Enough.

THE woman who wrote to me about her little baby having the prickly heat evidently keeps the baby too warmly dressed. In hot weather a baby of six months need not wear the heavy bellyband, and can very well dispense with the woolen shirt and flannel petticoat.

Babies do not react to heat and cold the way grown-up people do, because the centre of the brain, which controls the thermal changes in an adult, is not quite developed in the child.

A baby's temperature may run up a few degrees from the external heat or fall below normal from great cold outside.

The last is easy to remedy by applying artificial heat to the infant, thus bringing it up to the normal, but one finds it quite a difficult task to keep baby cool enough in the extreme heat of the Summer months.

This is the reason why babies fall such easy prey to the diseases peculiar in Summer.

Prickly heat is the most innocent of all the ailments babies are apt to get during the hot weather, and yet it often becomes very annoying and leaves serious consequences if not properly attended to.

The usual mild attack disappears in four or five days, but when it is constantly irritated by the woolen shirt and scratching of the affected part eczema is the result.

To avoid this ailment, or, rather, to cause a speedy cure, the baby must be kept clean and cool. Feed the baby sparingly during an attack of prickly heat and keep the bowels in good condition.

Sponge the skin with a cool solution of bicarbonate of soda (a teaspoonful of the soda to a pint of water), dry it gently and thoroughly with a soft cloth, then dust powder consisting of equal parts of boric acid and starch.

The clothing must be light. There is no excuse for the baby's perspiring so.

Change baby's clothes according to the weather.

It is worth while taking the trouble of doing so and avoid disease.

While wool absorbs the moisture from the body, it also gives additional heat and produces perspiration. In the Summer months woolen garments are not needed for healthy infants. Such clothes only make them very warm and extremely uncomfortable.

A gauze shirt and cotton diaper are really all the baby needs in hot weather for house attire, and a thin cambric slip over this for street wear.

It is, of course, different when at the seashore or mountains, where it is so much cooler than in the city. There it is often necessary to put a woolen outside wrap in addition to the flannels next to the child's body.

If mothers would only realize that it is really the heat that is responsible for the bowel trouble at this time of the year, convulsions, etc., they would try to keep babies cool, instead of overdressing them so as to produce prickly heat in such a severe form as to necessitate medical care.

IDA BADANES, M. D.

Health Is a Girl's Most Potent Charm

THE hygienic Summer girl is a delight to every eye. She is pretty, even though she be ugly of feature, for her teeth are good, her eyes are brilliant, her color clear and her manner charming, for she knows the secret of health, which unlocks to her the secret of happiness and so makes her a delightful companion.

To be hygienic you must first look to your digestion. If it is not all it ought to be then it is time to reform. Try this diet:

In the morning eat plenty of warm bread, toast, corn-bread or well-baked muffins. Toast is the best. All the good sweet butter you can. Enough jam or fruit preserves to be palatable. Weak coffee that is half hot milk, or two glasses of good milk and no coffee if you can do without it.

Eat fruit if you care for it.

Before breakfast take a teaspoonful of phosphate of soda and repeat it before each meal if the complexion is poor.

For dinner take a piece of steak or a lamb chop. Eat spinach, corn and all the green things you can get. Drink chocolate if you like it. Eat nothing fried and no candy unless you know it is pure.

Of course the hygienic girl must walk in the open air in loose clothing. But this she understands. And she knows also that she must get eight full hours' sleep each night.

The skin is a pretty good indication of the health of the body. If it is clear the body is sure to be in good condition. If the skin is dull the whole body is dull.

There is such a thing as being a healthy Summer girl without being an athletic girl. Indeed, many of the healthiest girls are not athletes at all. They keep themselves in good trim, letting the athletic side of the question go.

To be a hygienic girl means that you shall have a good digestion. A good digestion means that you should be able to eat anything that is set before you without inconvenience. It means that your complexion must be good and that your eyes must be bright and your lips red.

"SHADOWS OF NEW YORK"

CHAPTER XCV.

The Girl Speaks

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner.

"EVEN now you are wearing a brooch that belongs to the dead woman!" whispered Olga again, in a strangled voice, as Freda looked at her with in expression of wild terror, apparently incapable of speaking. "You were the woman Armadale spoke of!"

"No, no! It isn't true. You must not say such things. If you were heard they would lock me up! I—I found it—this brooch, and kept it. Why shouldn't I keep it when Zingara is dead? I found it, Olga. Don't look at me like that. You don't know how you frighten me! You used not to be so unkind."

"Freda," Olga said, "I know you are lying, and I want the truth—I will have the truth."

An icy clutch seemed to have laid its fingers on her. The worst she could have feared had happened. She knew that it was Freda who had crept out of the murdered woman's room with the jewels in her hand. Freda might deny it again and again. But she knew.

"I have told you the truth! Zingara gave me the brooch—I swear she gave me the brooch!" whimpered Freda. Her terror was pitiful.

"Zingara gave you the brooch? But a moment ago you told me that you had found it!" said Olga, never taking her eyes off the white-faced, trembling girl.

"You frighten me when you look at me like that—you confuse me, and then I don't know what I'm saying!" cried Freda.

"And I did find the brooch. I picked it up, and—and then Zingara said I could keep it. Now you know—don't talk about it any more, Olga! I wish I hadn't come to-day, and then you wouldn't have been able to frighten me so!"

Seeking Truth

"But I am waiting for the truth," said Olga again, in dull, passionless tones.

"What were you doing in the dead woman's rooms that you should steal out so furtively? Why were you so frightened when Mr. Armadale spoke, unless—unless——"

"But it was so dark—Mr. Armadale could not have seen me!" cried Freda eagerly.

"There was no light on the stairs——" She checked herself suddenly as though she realized the significance of her admission.

"Oh, what are you making me say? I tell you I know nothing, nothing——"

The rest of her denial was frozen into silence under her sister's accusing gaze.

The horror of her discovery almost made her dizzy. It had been Freda who stole out from the murdered woman's room—Freda!

And the girl had come to meet her to-day, utterly unconcerned, utterly careless that her sister was bearing the penalty of what she herself had done. Oh, it was too horrible to believe!

If only she need not have believed it; but Freda stood condemned out of her own mouth.

"Your own words are a confession," Olga said. "Your denials are useless," she continued quietly. "You have betrayed yourself by your own words."

Freda seemed suddenly to collapse.

"Olga," she cried, "if—if you'll only be gentle with me, I'll tell all—I will! I will! all the truth; I'll keep back nothing! Only don't look at me so hardly; it frightens me when you do. But if I tell you, you won't breathe it to a soul, will you? promise me that. They might take me to prison——"

Her sentence ended in a wild, sobbing cry.

Olga did not answer. The thought in her mind was the thought that had flashed across her a few days ago; the realization of that choice that would have to be made.

Her sister could not be spared without an innocent man suffering. Until the guilty person was brought to justice, John Herries must remain with that suspended sword hanging over his head.

A warrant was out for John March's arrest; at any time he might be discovered. She could only spare Freda by sacrificing, not herself only—that was the least thing she thought of in the horror that filled her mind—but the innocent man, the man she loved!

Gleam of Light

"You'll promise, won't you?" cried Freda, pitifully, imploringly. "I did take the jewels. But Zingara was dead when I went into the room, and I harmed no one by taking them!"

A startled gleam of light broke through the heavy, brooding trouble on Olga's face. She seized Freda's wrist; her eyes seemed to burn the girl's face with their fiercely intent gaze.

"Zingara was dead when you found her?" she demanded feverishly. "Is that the truth? Tell me, is that the truth? Zingara was dead when you went into the room?"

"Of course!" Freda stared at her in open-eyed surprise. "Why, you don't think—you couldn't think I killed Zingara?"

The sudden sense of relief that swept over Olga was almost overpowering.

How was it she had never thought of that possibility—that the woman whom Armadale had seen stealing from the flat with the jewels in her hand might yet have been guiltless of Zingara's death?

Yet this was the truth. Freda's manner convinced her. Thank God, she could believe that her sister was innocent of Zingara's death!

"Tell me all," she whispered—"everything unreservedly. For your own sake, if not for mine——"

"But you're not going to tell," cried Freda, imploringly, clutching Olga's wrist.

"If you had no share in that woman's death, you have nothing to fear. You must tell me all—you shall not leave this room until you do! For your own sake, because Mr. Armadale knows you came out of the dead woman's rooms, and it will be believed you committed that crime. Tell me the truth."

"I'll tell you everything!" Freda cried. "Oh, how could any one be so wicked as to think I did it——"

The Awful Truth

"Hush!" whispered Olga, suddenly, for they were no longer alone. Two ladies had come into the waiting room; but they sat down near the door, too far removed to hear the whispered words. "Speak in a whisper; above everything, you must remember to be cautious."

"I knew Zingara had come home from the theatre that night," said Freda, breathlessly, "because I saw her pass our door on her way upstairs——"

"Was she alone?"

"Yes, quite alone. I had seen her that morning, and she told me of some new jewelry she had got, and said she would show it to me. She had let me try on her jewelry before," said Freda, and the covetous passion for jewels that was a ruling passion with her betrayed itself in the gleam of her eyes. "So I thought I would run up to her room and ask her to show them to me then."

"But you didn't breathe a word of this to me that night," said Olga, looking at her sister narrowly.

"No, of course not," said Freda readily. "I told you I was going to mail your letter for you. Because I knew that if I told you you'd be disagreeable and try to prevent me going to Zingara's. I liked Zingara, and you were always trying to stop my being friendly with her."

Advice to Anxious Sweethearts

By Beatrice Fairfax

DO NOT ASK HIM

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young lady past eighteen, and am deeply in love with a young gentleman three years my senior, from my childhood days. He likewise loved me, but now his love seems to have changed.

We have been brought up together like brother and sister, but now that we have moved from that neighborhood he does not stop to talk to me, but simply will smile when we meet.

Now, Miss Fairfax, what I would like to know is this: Do you think it would be proper for me to stop him some day and ask him why he is so indifferent to me, because I feel I could [illegible] from him, as I still love him dearly?

BROKEN-HEARTED DOLLY.

DO not ask him the reason of his indifference, as it would only mean an embarrassing situation for both of you. He probably feels very friendly toward you, but his love may have changed. You are both very young and probably will love somebody else as time goes on.

HAIR
—ON A—
WOMAN'S FACE

By an improved method of electrolysis we remove for all time hair growing on the face. There is nothing that we know of so humiliating and embarrassing as this form of blemish. For 36 years we have devoted our time studying how to do this work better than any one else, until now we have a perfect system under control of perfect operators. If you have hair on the face come and have it removed forever.

MUSIC

SIMPLE LIFE

Above you see the frontispiece of the "Simple Life" Waltz. This is an original waltz, beautiful, effective and easy to play and highly lithographed on the best coated paper.

This piece is respectfully inscribed to Charles Wagner, of whose famous work President Roosevelt said: "I am preaching your book to my countrymen." The composer has infused into this musical composition the same lights, hopes and aspirations that pervade Mr. Wagner's prominent work.

From a meritorious as well as artistic point of view this piece is worth five times what we ask for it—

TWO WOMEN SHOPPERS IDENTIFY THEIR PHOTOS

In Spite of the Hot Weather Business Is Brisk With the Camera Man

Two recent snapshots of women shoppers were identified yesterday. Each of the lucky originals received the prize of $2, which is the daily award. Easy money, wasn't it?

Miss Bertha Lombard of Hampden Circle, Norfolk Downs, called at the BOSTON AMERICAN office and put in a late but valid claim on the little snapshot printed Wednesday, August 8. The photo was taken on Washington street, near Siegel's, on the previous day, and many of Miss Lombard's friends recognized it at a glance.

The snapshot in last Wednesday's paper was an excellent likeness of Miss Alice O'Brien of No. 11 Hillside terrace, Ashmont. Miss O'Brien was snapped as she came out of Starr's on Winter street, Tuesday. She received the original photo in addition to the award of $2.

Moral—When the Camera Man catches you, come and get your money. It's yours for identifying the picture.

GHOSTERS SAIL MINUS LEADER

ROCKLAND, Me., Aug. 24.—About seventy members of the Holy Ghost and U's colony, at Shiloh, are to-day cruising, supposedly for the Mediterranean Sea, without their leader, Rev. Mr. Sandford.

The start was made yesterday in the barkentine Kingdom, until recently the Rebecca Crowell, and the yacht Coronet of the Kingdom Yacht Club. A large quantity of provisions and water was taken aboard and preparations were apparently made for a long sail. One of the officials at Lisbon Falls stated that there would be no stop until Gibraltar was reached, which is regarded as an indication that the Holy Land is the destination.

BOTH DROWN IN FIGHT FOR LIFE

With the desperation of a drowning man James B. Jacobson of Malden grabbed Isadore Maged of Roxbury about the neck, and both were drowned in five feet of water while swimming in the Androscoggin River at Cook's Corner, Me., yesterday.

Both men were members of a Summer colony of Boston Jews at Cook's Corner. Jacobson was unable to swim, and was sinking for the second time when Maged hastened to the rescue. Both men struggled for a moment before death came. Maged was an expert swimmer.

Only Two Kinds of Men in This World. Which Kind Are YOU?

The Real Man THINKS FOR HIMSELF. The Imitation Man LETS OTHERS THINK FOR HIM

In proportion as a man suppresses his conviction to save his orthodoxy from suspicion, or distorts language from its common use, that he may stand well with his party; in that proportion he clouds and degrades his intellect, as well as undermines the integrity of his character.

W. E. CHANNING.

The above is an extract from an address delivered by the truly great man and earnest clergyman, William Ellery Channing, three-quarters of a century ago.

Such talk is needed in the United States TO-DAY more than it was when Channing preached and wrote in Boston.

A MAN IS WHAT HIS THOUGHTS MAKE HIM. A man of independent thought is a REAL man. A man who gets his beliefs, political and otherwise, ready-made, follows the ideas of others AND LETS THEM THINK FOR HIM, is no real man, but an automaton, out of place in a republic.

The American people for some time past have been developing more and more strongly the idea that their problems are to be solved BY INDEPENDENT THOUGHT AND ACTION, and no longer by blind party movements, under boss control.

There are in India hundreds of millions of men and women, and that entire population amounts to practically nothing, BECAUSE THE HUNDREDS OF MILLIONS ALLOW A SMALL COLLECTION OF ENGLISHMEN TO DO THEIR THINKING FOR THEM.

The American people of late had been drifting politically into the condition of the submissive inhabitants of India. But they have REALIZED the fact, and they are determined that conditions shall change.

THEY DO NOT PURPOSE ANY LONGER TO BE CONTROLLED BY A HANDFUL OF TRUST-OWNED POLITICAL BOSSES. They are not going to follow in the footsteps of the poor, submissive, weak-blooded people of India.

It is the principal business of readers of this newspaper to encourage the spirit of independent thinking among their neighbors.

The readers of this newspaper are largely responsible for the independent movement that is so strong all over the United States.

Those readers have been thinking and talking on independent lines, and their thought has spread.

The point to make in talking to your friends about political action and all other action is this:

A MAN IS INDEPENDENT, OR HE IS NOT INDEPENDENT.

A man thinks for himself, or he lets OTHERS think for him.

A man who does his own thinking is the real man. He is the man that amounts to something. A million men can go along in a rut, following somebody else's leadership; or two hundred millions, as in India, can go along in that way, and, all told, the million or the two hundred millions of dull, non-thinking creatures amount to absolutely nothing.

The man who goes blindly with one party or another party, NOT ASKING WHERE HE IS GOING OR WHY HE IS GOING THERE, is simply a human sheep following a bell-wether.

To save himself the trouble of thinking he follows a certain familiar noise, and that satisfies him. BUT HE IS A SHEEP, AND NO MAN.

This country, in a desperate struggle for freedom, succeeded in establishing the principle THAT PEOPLE OUGHT TO GOVERN THEMSELVES.

But it was, of course, thought when government was taken away from a foreign ruler, a king, and put into the hands of the people themselves, that the people at least WOULD TAKE ENOUGH INTEREST IN THEIR GOVERNMENT TO THINK ABOUT IT AND DECIDE ITS QUESTIONS FOR THEMSELVES.

It was not for a moment imagined that the people of the greatest country in the world would allow their affairs to drift into the hands of two parties—both parties controlled by bosses, and the bosses of both parties owned and controlled by trusts hostile to the welfare of the majority.

The situation before the country is this: Party government, which means government by trust-owned bosses, has taken the place of popular government in this country. And the trusts, through the bosses that they own in both parties, will continue to rule, continue to abuse the power of money as long as the situation lasts.

The duty of the independent citizen is not merely to think independently and act independently HIMSELF, but to impress his thoughts upon others. And that is the duty that we shall seek to impress upon all of our readers until it shall be evident that government is once again in the hands of the people, and that political action is the result of THOUGHT BY THE PEOPLE, and not of ORDERS BY THE TRUSTS TO THEIR POLITICAL MACHINES.

We hope and believe that each earnest, serious reader of this newspaper will impress upon his neighbors the duty of thinking for himself. He should think about government measures, about laws, about the importance of selecting judges that represent the people, about the possibility, through public ownership, of preventing public property from being stolen—ABOUT THE CHARACTERS OF ALL CANDIDATES AND THE BOSSES CONTROLLING THEM.

BE INDEPENDENT YOURSELF AND MAKE YOUR FRIENDS INDEPENDENT.

Little Editorials from the People

WANTS RUSSIA WIPED OFF THE MAP

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Noticing in your paper recently that you liked to hear from your readers on topics of general interest, giving their ideas on matters, I would like to ask you why it is that the civilized powers of the world do not combine and wipe the government of Russia off the map. A government that will allow such actions as the whipping of Mlle. de Smernoff and then suppress papers that publish the action is not fit to exist. I do not see wherein Russia's attitude toward the people of Russia is any more commendable than Spain's treatment of the Cubans. There are several besides myself who might be enlightened by an editorial in your paper on this subject.

WANTS MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP OF THE "L"

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

If you are sincere in your campaign for municipal ownership, take the Boston "L" instead of gas plants. Every station on the "L" is a death trap. It is a wonder to me that dozens are not killed instead of a few. Long platforms crowded with people and not a rail or gate to keep them from falling or being pushed in front of cars. These trains stop at regular places. Why can't rails and gates be put up? They could, if it belonged to the city; but it is cheaper for the "L" to kill people. Gas and electric plants are of benefit to a comparatively small number of people, but the transportation system is a necessity of all. The people of Boston are in the grip of a mighty monster, the Boston Elevated road. They should be liberated.

DO THE HALL-ROOM BOYS DESERVE MORE MONEY?

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Would like to call your attention to two honest workers for your paper—the Hall Room Boys. I think that if I had two gentlemen bringing in to me the money they are earning for you, they would get another raise in pay. Seeing they have been getting $11.50 per for a long time I think they deserve two dollars more a week.

E. Z. MARK NIPS A CONSPIRACY

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner

1. BOY—Package for Mrs. E. Z. Mark.

MR. E. Z.—All right. Just set it down, boy. Something my wife has bought, I suppose.

2. EXCITED PARTY (a few minutes later)—Mr. Mark, you can't act too quickly. A conspiracy against your wife. A boy just left a package here—

MR. E. Z.—Yes; what of it?

3. EXCITED PARTY—I'm a friend of Mrs. Mark's. I'm on to the conspiracy. Goods were stolen and brought here by conspirators. The storekeeper was to be informed. Search instituted. Stolen goods found in Mrs. Mark's possession. Name ruined. I'll just take them back and foil the conspirators.

MR. E. Z.—Oh, thank you, my unknown friend; thank you.

4. MRS. MARK (on her return home)—WHAT! You let a strange man take that package of silverware I just bought and paid one hundred dollars for! CONSPIRACY! Stolen! Search instituted! Oh, you booby! A lunacy commission for yours, that's what!

LIFE

(A Modern Version.)

A LITTLE youth—
A tiny bit—
A little work,
Then—aber nit!

A LITTLE graft—
A little biz—
A threat of jail,
And then—gee whiz!

A LITTLE billion
Stowed away—
A little castle,
And then—good day!

A LITTLE skeleton
Out of sight—
A little scandal,
And then—good night!

A LITTLE will
To quarrel by—
A little tomb,
And so—good-by!

ELEPHANTS are regarded with great favor by authors, because they all have trunks (the elephants have). Thus great scope is afforded for jokes about the elephant leaving his trunk as security for his board bill. The elephant is a pachyderm—that is, he doesn't care what names you call him.

The great auk is extinct, and for that reason makes an excellent cage bird. This bird is the subject of a beautiful poem by Shelley:

The silver squawk
Of the bounding auk,
Ah, me! how it stirreth the soul!
Oh, lands! Oh, lawk!
How that bird can talk,
How its honeyed accents roll,
But when you beg
For a single egg,
In tones as if glasses clinked,
The hopping auk
Is sure to balk
And murmur, "I can't; I'm extinct."

Care should be taken in approaching the octopus. By patting it gently and saying in a soothing tone, "There's a good little octopussy," one may touch it with impunity, but it is very dangerous when provoked with mentions of rebates or rate bills. The octopus is as widely distributed as the Constitution, and by some classes is worshipped as the fetish of prosperity.

One of the most useful of domestic animals is the potato-bug, which is very little trouble to keep, as it lives in its burrow most of the time. As a draught animal it is not so useful as the horse, and it is but little use as a mother to chickens, yet its cute ways and extreme watchfulness at night endear it to the farmer.

The swallow is a warm weather bird, and is usually found in soda fountains, where one does not make a drink. The young swallow is called a "sip," and the full-grown specimen is sometimes called the "gulp."

Let Cheerfulness Reign in the Home

By Clara Morris

JUST what her mythological name was in the far old days, no one knows, but it is thought because of her rosy health and her willingness to serve others she may have been that lovely Hebe, the Goddess of Youth, who to-day, bringing into any home where she is honored the merriment and content that combined mean domestic happiness, is known as the woman-loving Goddess of Cheerfulness.

Her power is wonderful, and she so dearly loves the flattery of imitation that to every woman who strives to copy her she gives generously of her power to charm.

This lovely Goddess of Cheerfulness is mother of Joy, and no sooner is an altar raised to the mother than the light dancing steps of Joy enter the house in her wake.

Oh, woman! woman! particularly you who are heads of families, clear a little space in your hearts and erect a simple altar to the Goddess of Cheerfulness, who ever teaches loving service to others, and the power of whose charm is not to be believed till you have tried it!

Perhaps your dear ones may this very day be dull and discontented—worse, they may be envious of another's home, for the very need of cheerfulness.

It is folly to call the husband the head of the house; he is not. It is but a courtesy title at best, since in truth he is but an incident in the home life, while the wife and mother is its whole existence.

Literally the sun of domestic happiness rises or sets on the face of the wife and mother.

I recall how in my little girl days I was once left by my mother for three or four days in the care of a friend's family. It was on a Monday morning that everything went wrong. Mr. T—— sat at table, looking irritable and a bit sullen. The waitress slammed things; in the kitchen the cook seemed to be hurling things.

The baby in his high chair had reached out and secured a tablespoon, with which he banged the table, while endangering his own eyes. The little daughter of the house slid ungracefully on to her shoulder blades, and the eldest boy sat sideways on his chair, as if in a saddle.

A Woman's Influence

MRS. T—— came brightly in, evened the shades, caught the flying hand of the babe, checked his rising bellow with a kiss on his moist little mouth and another on his hand, into which she thrust a crust of bread; lifted the girl to a proper position; gave me a pat on the head; gazed in amazement at the side seat of her son, saying:

"Oh, have I no man son this morning, only an every-day, forgetful little boy? Can you think of papa seated like that?" Round turned the lad, receiving a radiant smile in return, while Mr. T—— braced up and tried to look less sulky.

Then Mrs. T—— poured the coffee—it was thick and muddy. "Oh, my dear!" she cried, "just look at the paper a moment while I make you some fresh coffee; this would spoil your whole day!"

As she hurried past the frowning Annie she said, "Please help the children for me this time; you understand how as well as their mother. Bridget," she said, "I'm afraid the grocer is not treating us well. This coffee is not nearly so nice as usual. I'm going to make a little quite strong, if possible, for Mr. T——."

For a moment war glowed in Bridget's eye; then the smiling, unconscious face was too much for her. "Sure, the coffee's all right," she growled, "but it's wash day, and—and—well, I let it be shtanding an hour or so."

Joy Follows

PRESENTLY the fresh coffee, creamed and sweetened, was offered brightly to the lord and master—things were going better. Then papa struck his egg too hard a blow, and a spurt of yolk followed.

The children tittered doubtfully, when the father indulged in his one and only joke—a pretended rage at being laughed at by his offspring, and as he banged his fists upon the table, knife and fork erect in each, and glared at them, the titters deepened into a rivulet of happy laughter, that circled round the table—even Annie grinned—and all chattered.

When papa suddenly heard the clock chiming he barely had time to kiss the brood all round, catch his hat and go.

All had ended happily, merrily, that had begun so wretchedly. Bright cheerfulness, which is ever contagious, had saved the day.

No one paused to think that in the years to come even the memory of his children's gurgling laughter might be sweet in the father's ears—a most precious souvenir. Or that the children, when children no longer, might recall with delight papa's one old joke of glaring fiercely at their disrespectful laughter.

For myself, I shall never forget the comfort and protection that came to serve to make things right for all.

Thus, even in that obscure household, the Goddess entered, finding an altar there, and, as ever happens, Joy followed Cheerfulness.
